WEATHER INDICATIONS.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., Aug. 17, 1892.

The weather conditions over the entire country during the past 24 hours have remained almost the same.

The area of high pressure covers the country east of the Mississippi river, and will continue to dominate the weather of the eastern half of the country during the next 36 hours.

The area of high pressure which was central in the extreme northwest yesterday morning has remained stationary.

The storm which was central over the Dakotas has also remained stationary.

Rains have been reported from Montana, Minnesota and over the country north of Dakota and Montana, and on the South Atlantic and Gulf coast.

The temperature has fallen from 5 to 10 degrees at Dakota, Minnesota, Wyoming and Nebraska:: it remained stationary in all other sections.

Fair weather will prevail over the entire eastern half of the country to-day.

Taken in time, even Consumption yields to the wonderful effects of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It won't make new lungs—but it will make diseased ones healthy when nothing else will. There's reason for it, too. Consumption is Lung-scrofula. For every form of scrofula, and all blood-taints, the "Discovery" is a positive cure. It's the most potent strength-restorer, blood-cleanser, and flesh-builder known to medical science. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, and all lingering Coughs, it's an unequaled remedy. It's a guaranteed one.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back. You've everything to gain from it—nothing to lose.

It's especially potent in curing Tetter, Salt-rheum, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands, Tumors and Swellings. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence.

Latest News From the Buffalo Strike.

It May Extend Across the Continent.

Lake Traffic Already Badly Crippled.

Central and West Shore Men Leave the Yards.

Miles of Cars Standing on the Tracks and Police and Soldiers Kept Busy to Prevent Destruction of Property.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The strike situation this morning is most alarming, and the danger can hardly be overestimated.

There are nearly 1,000 men on strike, with a probability of 300 or 400 more being added to the number in the next 24 hours.

The strike in the Central and West Shore shortly after midnight causes much apprehension.

The aim now seems to be a general tie-up.

The wildest rumors prevail as to the probable outcome of the troubles, which strikers predict may extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific unless their demands are acceded to.

Up to midnight the situation was ominous.

Only two arrests had been made of strikers for rioting, and in one instance 25 policemen succeeded in dispersing a body of 200 destructionists.

But as the strikers grow in numbers more outbreaks are feared.

With trouble at Sayre, Hornellsville and Binghampton, and prospective strikers at Waverly, Jersey City and other points, the handling of freight by the men imported to take the place of strikers must necessarily be impeded, and it is not easy to forsee the outcome should the difficulty extend, as the strikers affirm it will, from state to state.

The strike on the Central was ordered by the Switchmen's union. The grievance committee of the New York Central waited upon General Superintendent Voorhees yesterday for a final answer to their demands.

Mr. Voorhees declined to grant them, and last night the climax came. The committee met at Kaiser's hall and decided to strike.

The committee continued in session until a late hour, but at 9 o'clock the order was sent to the various yards of the company at Black Rock, Suspension Bridge and Niagara Falls to stop work at midnight.

The order to the two latter places was not expected to go into effect until 2 o'clock this morning, when the messenger would arrive from Buffalo.

The switchmen in the yards in this city were also ordered out at midnight. It was understood that the order will not for the present effect passenger train men.

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western switchmen have plainly been in sympathy with their striking brethren of the Lehigh and the Erie, and they will not probably long remain at work handling freight for the other lines.

The strike is extending and may be far reaching in its consequences and disastrous to the business community.

The Central's yards are of vast extent and in three different sections of the city. Four of the six switch tenders employed in the New York Central depot in Exchange street quit their posts soon after 12 o'clock.

Arrangements were at once made to send out an engine and crew to bring in the Lake Shore passenger train due here at 1:40.

A police escort was sent with the engine. In the Central yards at 2 o'clock all the men had quit work and all the engines were being laid up.

Twenty-five policemen under Captain Zacher were on guard in the yards. Everything was quiet and orderly.

The New York Central's yards here passed through a strike two years ago. The company defeated the men, filling the yards with non-union men. It was not believed that the union could again get a stronghold in the yards, but committees have been at work for several months preparing for a strike.

A vote was taken in the yards a week ago and resulted in three-fourths of the men agreeing to strike for the ten hour system if necessary.

The action of last night was the result of the ballot.

The company employs about 25 day engines and something over a dozen night engines, each having a switching crew of three men besides the engineers and firemen, making a total of about 125 men in switching service in the yards.

The strike on the Central and West Shore will very nearly blockade business on the lakes, so far as Buffalo is concerned.

Already the shipments of coal have been stopped. The average movement has been about two cargoes a day since Friday.

Already the northwestern flour agencies are complaining that they are getting swamped with flour and with only the Lackawanna left to help them out they will accomplish very little toward keeping up with eastern business.

The receipts of grain are so heavy that the elevators will soon be full. General package frieght is accumulating so rapidly that the warehouses are overflowing with it.

The effect of the strike in the big railroad shops is already becoming apparent. Cars for rebuild and repair are growing fewer in the shops, while they are piling up on the road.

"If the strike continues much longer," said one of the Lehigh Valley men last night, "the road will be compelled to make a serious reduction in its shop force."

Many rumors of conferences between high officials of railroads and also between grand officers of various orders of railroad employes were current last night but so far as is known nothing of these occurred.

The report that President McLeod was coming here and the presence of Vice President Webb, of the Central, in the city, probably gave rise to the first report.

The general superintendent of the Reading system, Mr. Bensano, is expected here to-day. Grand Master Sargent and Grand Secretary Debs, of the locomotive firemen, and Grand Master Wilkinson, of the railway trainmen, were also reported to be here or expected. The last named left Chicago yesterday for Buffalo, but nothing is known of the first two named.

Division No. 12 of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen held its regular meeting last night. At its close the members declined to say anything about what occurred at the meeting. It was expected that Messrs. Sargent and Debs would be present at the meeting but they did not put in an appearance. Nearly all of the firemen seen did not believe they would be called upon to go out.

Superintendent Fennell, of the Lehigh Valley, stated last night that for the present the companies will pay particular attention to the lake freight business.

"We will soon be in good shape to handle our business," said Mr. Fennell, "as we have 60 men in East Buffalo now ready to go to work."

Superintendent Brunn, of the Erie, expressed himself as satisfied that everything will be running smoothly to-day, although the company will not attempt to do any night work while the strike lasts.

THE FOURTH BRIGADE.

Troops Enough to Insure Protection to the Men.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—Word from Philadelphia was received last night that President McLeod was prepared to send on all the men needed as soon as he was assured of proper protection. This he will get for General Doyle has ordered all of the Fourth brigade to report to him here today. Representatives of all the roads went before Judge Green late yesterday and represented that their property was not sufficiently guarded by the troops called out by the sheriff. The judge granted an order to General Doyle who at once issued a general order calling out the entire Fourth brigade. In his letter to General Doyle, Judge Green says:

"It appears to me that a riotous and unlawful assembly is in the county of Erie, state of New York, with intent to offer violence to persons and property. I do hereby order and direct you to order your command and all thereof to appear and assemble forthwith at a place to be designated by you in the city of Buffalo to aid the civil authorities in suppressing violence and enforcing the law."

The fourth brigade comprises fifteen separate companies from different points between here and Syracuse. This brings an additional force of 1,140 men on the scene to-day, making a total of about 2,600 men under arms here.

The companies ordered out are as follows: First separate company of Rochester, 70 men; second separate company of Auburn, 90 men; eighth separate company of Rochester, 85 men; thirteenth separate company of Elmira, 75 men; twenty-eighth separate company of Tonawanda, 90 men; twenty-sixth separate company of Elmira, 80 men; thirtieth separate company of Elmira, 75 men; thirty-fourth separate company of Geneva, 65 men; forty-first separate company of Syracuse, 75 men; forty-second separate company of Niagara Falls, 75 men; forty-third separate company of Olean, 90 men; forty-fifth separate company of Cortland, 70 men; fourth separate company of Oswego, 100 men; fifth battery of Syracuse, 75 men.

These companies will be armed and equipped similarly to the Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth. The Fifth battery, however, will leave its guns behind and the men will be armed with sabres and pistols. Some of these companies started for Buffalo this morning. The first and eighth separate companies of Rochester arrived over the Central about 3 o'clock this morning.

ARBITRATION BOARD.

Purcell Robertson and Donovan Arrive in Buffalo.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—William Purcell, of Rochester, chairman of the state board of mediation and arbitration, with Messrs. Robertson of Troy, and Donovan of Brooklyn, arrived here yesterday to investigate the situation.

Commissioners Purcell and Robertson drove out to the Erie & Lehigh yards, now under guard of the militia.

They had an interview with General Doyle and afterward called on Grand Master Sweeney.

Another conference was held last night between the members of the state board and about a score of switchmen, together with Grand Master Sweeney. It lasted until nearly midnight.

To-day the members of the state board will confer with the railroad representatives. Commissioner Donovan, at the close of the meeting, was asked if they had formed any impression regarding the situation. He said they could not do so until they had heard both sides.

The railroaders, when seen, were full of glee over the tidings which came from outside points where strikes have been declared or where men are reported on the eve of striking.

The strikers are withdrawing from the Erie and Lehigh yards where the militia are in control, to the outside territory where they can have things more their own way and where they can make much trouble.

An instance of this was given late yesterday afternoon when a large body of strikers intercepted an Erie freight at Taylor park, near Alden and stalled it, pulling all the coupling pins and setting the brakes. The train was backed to Alden and remained there all night.

Troops will be sent out to that vicinity to-day.

But one act of violence occurred during the night. It brought out the first shot of the campaign. At midnight Capt. F. E. Wood, company H, Seventy-fourth regiment, who with his company, was guarding the Lackawanna bridge, fired on a man on a moving freight train who threw a stone at him. The stone struck the captain in the leg and he promptly sent a shot from his revolver into the darkness but did not hit him, so far as is known. The early hours of the morning passed without incident and at 10 o'clock this morning all was reported quiet.

TROOPS ASSIGNED.

Soldier Boys Ordered to Their Posts —Two Fatal Accidents.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—A general order was issued from brigade headquarters at 10 o'clock this morning, assigning the troops to positions.

The Sixty-fifth regiment will cover the territory between Tifft farm and Babcock street junction on the Lehigh.

The Seventy-fourth will have charge of the Lehigh from there into the city.

The Thirteenth, of Jamestown; Forty-second, of Niagara falls; Forty-third, of Olean, and Twenty-fifth of Tonawanda, are to be joined to the Sixty-fifth.

Companies A, P and D have gone to the Lehigh trestle to relieve Capt. Babcock.

There were two fatal accidents in the yards last night. An unknown man was struck by a New York Central engine at Cheektowaga and instantly killed.

Michael McCarthy, a young cooper, was run over by a Lehigh Valley engine and died soon afterward.

A SOLDIER SHOT.

A Militia Man Who Did Not Know His Gun Was Loaded.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—Private Frederick W. Elsnesser, of the 65th, was accidentally shot by a fellow soldier named Lucien Holmes, this morning. Holmes was snapping the trigger of a rifle when it went off, the bullet striking Elsnesser directly between the eyes, passing through his head. Elsnesser was removed to the camp hospital and Surgeon York attended to his wound. There is a fair chance of his recovery. The rifle was loaded by some one contrary to orders and Holmes supposed it was empty.

A dispatch was received here from Chicago this morning stating that it was reported there that the Erie & Western New York and Pennsylvania lines had given in, but there is no foundation for the report as far as the Erie is concerned, and the other road mentioned is not tied up.

The Rochester & Pittsburg switchmen went out again at noon to-day. Their demands had been granted and the strike is one of sympathy. It is reported on good authority that the trainmen will all go out on the tied-up roads within 48 hours. The sheriff has telegraphed Gov. Flower asking that the entire state militia be ordered out and sent here.

GRAND MASTER SWEENEY.

He Intimates that the Companies Burned Their Own Cars.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—Grand Master Sweeney was seen this morning and asked what he thought of the calling out of the Fourth brigade. He replied that the presence of the troops was unnecessary to prevent destruction of property by switchmen. "We will do no damage, we have done no damage, we have planned no damage," said he. "We shall aid the soldiers in any way their officers may suggest. We are not thugs, but well disposed people who want to gain our ends by peaceable means."

Mr. Sweeney asserted as firmly as ever that the destruction of property on Sunday was not done by switchmen. He said: "When the first of this strike came it became necessary somehow or other to divert public sympathy from the strikers to whom it naturally ran and get a little of it for these roads—the Erie and the Lehigh which are so generally unpopular in this city and vicinity. Railroad lawyers and railroad managers are no fools."

When asked if he meant to suggest that the companies burned their own property, he replied that he had heard just such rumors, and added: "It is well known that the cars burned were condemned, abandoned old hulks, shunted on to grass-grown sidings out in Cheektowaga and left there to rot.

"The Pollocks have been taking them to pieces and using them for firewood right along without any objection being made by the company. And these were the cars burned Sunday night, and that burning set the citizens against the switchmen who had had all their sympathy before.

"Those were the most profitable bonfires I ever heard of and they did not cost anybody a cent unless the county is foolish enough to pay for them. We can furnish evidence that they were abandoned and valueless old cars. If the switchmen had put the torch to those cars they would have been arrested long ago."

TO WRECK A TRAIN.

A Car and Engine Turned Into an Open Switch and Ditched.

An attempt to wreck an engine an car at Black Rock was made last night. About 8:40 o'clock an engine and car loaded with coupling pins left the Erie yards at that place for East Buffalo. It had gone but a short distance when it ran into an open swith and jumped the track.

The locomotive was not seriously damaged but the car was wrecked, and the coupling pins were scattered about the tracks for some distance. The switch light had been turned and was burning "clear." The police arrested Samuel Leary, Henry Albach and William Sanders, all strikers, on suspicion of having turned the switch.

At 4:05 this morning fire was discovered in a freight loaded with tan bark at Clinton and Babcock streets. The fire department put the blaze out. The strikers are suspected of incendiarism.

BULLETINS.

Gossip Concerning the Great Switchmen's Strike in Buffalo.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The Forty-first separate company left at 10 o'clock this morning for Buffalo.

New York, Aug. 17.—Mr. J. A. Bostwick, ex-president of the New York & New England railroad, died suddenly at Mamaroneck, N. Y., this morning, while assisting in putting out a fire that had broken out in a neighbor's house. Heart disease was the immediate cause of death.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—The fast freight lines are probably the greatest sufferers by the strike. Thousands of dollars' worth of perishable goods are standing on the side tracks of the several lines, and nothing can be done towards forwarding them.

There are rumors flying of a strike of locomotive firemen being imminent, but none of them can be traced to a reliable source. It is considered improbable by the best informed railroad men.

New York, Aug. 17.—A telegram was received at the office here of the New York Central this morning from Vice President Webb at Buffalo, which stated that there was no trouble at Buffalo with the passenger trains on the Central road. The trains were being handled promptly and in the usual manner and there was no delay.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The following circlar telegram was received here to-day:

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—To all freight agents, New York Central railroad: Receive freight from all points as usual.
H. WALTER WEBB.

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The forty-eighth separate company left here at 3:45 this morning for Buffalo.

Cortland, N. Y., Aug. 17.—At 9 o'clock this morning Capt. H. A. Dickinson, of the forty-fifth separate company, received orders to start for Buffalo at 11:15 a. m., the company, fifty-two strong, left on a special train. Each man had eighteen rounds of cartridges.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The Rochester and Pittsburg switchmen struck at noon. It is reported the trainmen on all the tied-up roads will go out within 48 hours. The sheriff has called on the governor for the entire state militia.

HE WAS A FISH,

And O'Donovan Rossa Took Him in.

Wm. Doyle Gives Up Quite a Little Cash and Now Wants It Back.

New York, Aug. 17.—Wm. Doyle, an infirm old man, 83 years old, arrived in this city about five weeks ago from the Sisters hospital in Buffalo.

His mission was to find O'Donovan Rossa, to donate $50 toward the burning up of England. He gave a guide $5 to take him to the editor of the United Irishman, who told him in all candor that the old cause was dead and that if he insisted on donating the money it would only be taken in return for a life subscription. Doyle gave him the $50. Rossa took the man to his home.

Now Doyle claims that Rossa obtained $110 from him by false pretenses and has retained counsel.

It appears from reports of the housekeeper, with whom he subsequently boarded here, that Doyle's mind is unbalanced.

He was most lavish with his money and was such a nuisance that she soon told him to vacate.

From the hospital in Buffalo it is learned that they will not have him there as he got drunk and violated the rules.

COOLEY DEPREDATIONS.

Kingwood, W. Va., Aug. 17.—Great excitement prevails over the Cooley depredations. Yesterday the store of Merchant Elliot at Bruceton was raided and robbed of nearly $1,000. A number of other like depredations are reported. The sheriff is out with a large armed posse. If the outlaws are captured summary justice will be dealt by the people without mercy.

I. C. B. U. CONVENTION.

FORMALLY OPENED

Twenty Fourth Annual Session in Progress.

Welcome Address by Rev. P. F. Quigley, D. D.

With a Response by President Daly of Philadelphia.

Reports of the Officers Submitted and Referred.

Full Text of the Documents—Services at St. Francis De Sales—The Toledo Organizations—Boat Ride and Social.

The twenty-fourth annual convention of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union formally opened the proceedings of the session at Memorial hall this forenoon.

The eastern delegates began arriving yesterday morning, and last night and to-day finds the great majority present. The delegation as a whole is composed of brainy, business men, representing almost every profession, trade and branch.

When the Toledo delegates to the Scranton convention, a year ago, asked the Union to visit Toledo in annual convention this year, certain pledges were made, and from present appearances the promises then made will be faithfully executed.

The local branches are leaving nothing undone to make the visit of the delegates in this city pleasant. A series of entertainments have been arranged, and so far the delegates have nothing but kindly words to say of Toledo.

The first day's proceedings formally opened at St. Francis de Sales church at 10 o'clock this forenoon, when the delegates and members of the local organizations attended divine services in a body.

The Forenoon Services.

The services at St. Francis de Sales church were preceded by a meeting at Friendship hall, where the members and visitors were provided with badges. The meeting was well attended, and the members escorted the delegates to the church. The members of St. Cecelia society had previously assembled at the St. Francis de Sales school house, and occupied seats in the center aisles with the young men. The outside aisles were crowded with strangers and members of the parish.

The following officiated:

Celebrant—Rev. Father Arnoldi, Berwick, Ohio.

Deacons—Rev. Father Bell; Rev. Father Kress, of the Washington university.

Master of ceremonies—Rev. Father Callaghan, Chicago.

Assistants—Messrs. Herr and Redding.

Preacher—Rev. Father Graham.

Priests in sanctuary—Foskinkeade, Wycoveck, Marring, Somaya, Parruska, Muhlembock.

Nearly 700 people attended the services at the church. It was probably the most beautiful service ever witnessed in Toledo, and the music the grandest, the most prominent musicians in the city taking part. The soloists were:

Mrs. F. W. Machen, Miss Effie Obermiller, Miss Anna McHale, Miss Anna Van Dusen, Mr. Tom Bower, Mr. Dan S. Bourdette, Mr. Ed. J. Goulet, Mr. Henry Cressey.

Pianist—Miss Rose Clouse.

Organist—Mr. August A. Machen.

Violin—Mr. Arthur E. Trost.

Clarinet—Mr. Phil. Uhl.

Trombone—Mr. Jos. Uhl.

The morning address was to have been delivered by Bishop Horstmann, but in his absence Father Graham, of Atwell, Ohio, spoke briefly of the objects and necessities of the Catholic Benevolent society, and encouraged the members to continue in their good work.

On an occasion of some particular solemnity, like this, people naturally expect to hear the word of truth—the word of the church, expounded. In the absence of the distinguished gentleman who was to have addressed you, you will have to listen to the truth clothed in a few plain words. If members of the Catholic church were thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the great leader of the church, Jesus Christ, there would be no need of Catholic societies; but they are human, and weak, and in their imperfection, societies of this nature are a necessity. The enemies of the church are found largely in societies, and as a good general fixes his defense directly in the line of attack, so the Catholic church fights the enemies of the church with the weapons of the enemy. And in order that these societies can do effective work, the members of the societies must be practical Catholics. Many persons sneer at these organizations, but God forbid that sneers should have the effect of causing the young men and women of the Catholic church to draw back from this work that is needed for the growth of the church and the development in Christian grace of its members.

Father Graham has a fine presence, and clear, distinct voice, and every word of his brief but impressive address was distinctly audible to every person in the vast assemblage.

The convention formally organized this morning at Friendship hall. Each union represented was instructed to name one one on each of the committee on resolutions and amendments to the constitution.

President Daly named the following committee on credentials: Grady, of Philadelphia; McGoldrick, of Chester, Pa.; Kelly, of New Jersey; Larney, of Rhode Island, and Foster, of Maryland.

The following are the members of the other committees:

Committee on amendments—E. A. Murphy, Pennsylvania; Hugh Foster, Delaware; J. M. Kelly, New Jersey; A. J. Scorry, Ohio; S. A. Larney, Rhode Island; Walter Walsh, Missouri; M. W. Reardon, West Virginia; John Luney, Illinois; J. G. Behan, Canada;

On resolutions—E. J. Flannagan, Pennsylvania; Hugh Foster, Delaware; J. M. Kelly, New Jersey; J. T. Hickey, Ohio; P. Shay, Canada; S. A. Larney, Rhode Island; Walter Walsh, Minnesota; M. W. Reardon, West Virginia; John Lemy, Illinois.

Afternon Session.

It was considerably after 2 o'clock when President Daly called the meeting to order this afternoon. The hall was well filled with delegates and visitors, and the platform on which were seated the officers and members of the press was handsomely decorated.

President Daly introduced, in a brief speech the Rev. Dr. Quigley, who delivered an eloquent address of welcome to the delegates. He spoke of the great work in which the organization was engaged and urged the necessity of thorough organization as a means of continued success.

The committee on credentials had reported in the meantime, and President Daly then delivered his annual address:

President Daly's Address.

Fellow Delegates:—This is the 24th annual convention of the Irish Catholic Benevolent union, and we are here in the name of our respective societies to advise with one another as to what can be done for their advancement in the year to come. The record of our 24 years is resplendent with the noblest acts of Catholic charity. Every page of our history is illumined by events that speak louder than words of the good we have done.

The steady flow of benevolence among our own needy has never ceased, and in times of great sorrows and misfortunes among our neighbors, whether Protestants or Catholics, this union has always gone to their assistance. Whether it were fevers or famines, or fires or floods that sent out the cry of distress, we have never, thank God, forgotten our duty as Christians to answer its call. We may make a greater record in the future, but we cannot make a brighter one than these 24 years have placed to our credit. We are also thoroughly and intensely Catholic in every fibre of our being. Our Holy Mother, the church, has stamped her approval upon our Catholicity at every annual convention since our organization and to-day she offered the holy sacrifice of the mass that God might enrich our deliberations with His blessing.

The year just closed has been one of unusual severity for our societies.

The prevalence of sickness during the past year has been unprecedented, and the consequent strain upon our treasuries has been very great.

A calculation based upon actual figures and careful estimates shows that over $125,000 has been paid out by our local societies during the year in relief to the sick and in the burial of the dead. This great demand upon our treasuries, however, furnishes the strongest evidence of the value of our societies to our Catholic working people, and if an awakening interest in their mission will result from this demonstration of their usefulness we will have reason for rejoicings instead of regrets.

It is in the hour of distress that true friendship shines brightest—it is when we have fallen that a brother's helping hand is most needed—and so it is when sickness danives our home. It is then that the sweet incense of our Catholic Brotherhood is most cheering and comforting, and its substantial assistance is most welcome, and when death opens the door that leads into its silent valley it is then that our brotherhood seems grandest, as it follows its departing comrade into eternity with its prayers while it brings to the bereaved family the offerings of its love.

I speak of our union as specially commending itself to our working people, for, it is they who need its friendship and protecting care the most—it is of them, by them, and for them, and its mission is among them—they are the so-called common people, they are the people who build our churches and institutions of charity and religion and they are the people who support them.

They are the people whom God loves the most because their trials are greatest and their cross the heaviest. It was among them He assumed His humanity as it was to them He entrusted the duty of holding aloft the truths of man's redemption that they might be seen of all ages.

It is for such people that our union is laboring—it is our mission to teach them that their strength comes entirely with God's grace from being united in a common endeavor—in sickness or in health, in joy or in sorrow, in the workshop or in the warehouse they must be actuated by a common sympathy, and united in a common purpose, if they wish to accomplish any common good.

Our union has grown as rapidly as we would wish. There seems to be much difficulty in dislodging the old idea that its mission is to unite already organized societies, rather than to organize new ones. Few old societies remain to be united though.

Uniting old societies is good, but organizing new ones is better, because in that line a much larger and more productive field is open for tillage.

To arms! is the soldier's cry when the enemy is near. To organize! should be our cry until our influence arms every Catholic home in the land against sickness and death—enemies that are always near.

The Catholic church erects a sanctuary wherever civilized man sets his foot so that his soul may be freshened and strengthened by being fed at its rail. So it should be our aim to have a branch in every parish in America so that a member traveling over the country would always find I. C. B. U. brothers and sisters under the shadow of every cross.

And wherever we are the calls upon the St. Vincent de Paul society of the parish are fewer and the parish is therefore the richer.

Instead of helping men and women with alms, our society shows them how to help themselves—thus their wants are relieved and their self respect is saved at the same time. What we give as a right is worth double that given as alms by others.

What our union needs is that each branch should consider itself an organizing center thoroughly filled with the determination not to rest day or night until it had exhausted its influence in organizing a society in every locality within its reach, and that members should feel it their bounden duty to assist in the work, and I earnestly hope that the infusion of that spirit into our societies and their members will be one of the happy results of this convention.

The Secretary's Report.

Your secretary has the honor to present to you his 21st report. Since our last convention at Scranton, 15 societies have been admitted to the union.

They were:

No. 568—St. Louis L. & B. association, Waterloo, Canada.
569—St. Leocadius, Sandusky, Ohio.
570—St. Leo, Doylestown, Pa.
571—Young Ladies' C. B., Beaver Meadows, Pa.
572—Holy Trinity, McSherrytown, Pa.
573—Knights of St. Edward, Shamokin, Pa.
574—Immaculate Conception, Allegheny City, Pa.
576—St. Mary's Ladies, Pottstown, Pa.
577—St. Clements, Preston, Canada.
578—Knights of St. Paul, York, Pa.
579—St. Mary's, Norfolk, Va.
580—St. Anthony of Padua, Philadelphia, Pa.
581—St. Paul's C. B. A., Providence, R. I.
582—St. Gertrude, Kingston, Can.
583—Ladies', Media, Pa.

The St. Patrick's society of St. Joseph, Mo., reported as delinquent in my last report, has been reinstated.

The Catholic Hibernian society of Georgetown, D. C., which withdrew in 1886, has been reinstated.

Thus the additions to the roll during the last year have been 17.

Of the newly admitted societies, two were organized by Organizer Thomas Barrett, of Galt, Canada.

One by Wm. J. Ward, of Beaver Meadow, Pa.

One by S. A. Larney, of Providence, R. I.

One by J. E. Fisher, of Allegheny City, Pa.

One by A. J. Edelman, of Pottstown, Pa.

One by Michael Glennan, of Norfolk, Va.

One by Mrs. Reilly, vice-president of the union, Toledo, O.

One by Vice-President Behan.

Of the 10 newly formed societies eight are composed of Catholic women. Their formation is due in every case to the appeals and endeavors of our second vice-president, Mrs. Reilly, whose exertions during the year have been constant and earnest, and thus productive of good results this year, with promise of greater in the future.

She has endeavored to arouse the attention of the Catholic women of the country to the necessity of organizing for benevolent purposes; and she has endeavored to secure the co-operation of the delegates to the Scranton convention and

THE BREEZE WAS LIGHT.

First Day's Racing at Cleveland.

Louise and Arzo Winners of the Events.

Games of Ball Played—Standing of the Big League—General Mention.

Cleveland, Aug. 17.—The first day of the Cleveland Yacht club's regatta dawned bright and fair, but the wind didn't blow a gale by any means. It was one of the common place seven-mile-an-hour breezes which render yacht racing uninteresting to those who go in the expectation of seeing an accident or two to enliven the occasion.

The breeze shifted with the sun, and when the hour of the race was reached was north-northeast.

W. J. White's steam yacht Say When, carrying the judges and timekeepers and a party of invited guests, went out before 10 o'clock and dropped her anchor a little west of the nearest stake boats, which lay off the east breakwater about opposite Seneca street. They marked one corner of the equilateral triangular course, only the northeast leg of which, six miles long, was used in yesterday's races. Besides those entered for the races, the water was dotted with yachts, big and little, steam and sail, steam launches, canoes and row boats, and Lake View park was well filled with spectators, besides which quite a number of people were on each arm of the breakwater. In many of the offices in the high buildings within view of the lake were ladies and gentlemen armed with binoculars, who enjoyed the race with more comfort, perhaps, than anyone else.

Among the larger yachts were the schooner Wasp and Sloop Minx, the latter from Sandusky, both of which were filled with guests. The steam yachts Tallalusa, of Erie, and Winifred, of Cleveland, carried a number of spectators.

Yesterday's races consisted of the contests for the prizes in classes D and E. The entries in class D were yachts whose corrected length was 25 feet and under 32 feet, the corrected length, under the rules of the regatta, measuring one-half the sum of the load water line and the square root of the sail area. Class E consisted of yachts whose corrected length feasured less than 25 feet. In the former class there were five entries and in the latter four.

For class D the preparatory guns were fired on the Say When at 10:16 o'clock, and after 15 anxious minutes a second discharge was heard, and five handsome yachts were off. The cutter Louise, of Buffalo, Captain F. W. Calkins, was the first to cross the line. Her official starting time was 10:32:06. She was followed by the center-board sloops Iris, of Port Huron, Captain Charles L. Parmelee, and Surprise of Detroit, Captain Charles Boston, which crossed together at 10:33:41. Then came the sloop Carmencita, of Erie, Captain S. L. Bliss, at 10:34:15, and the sloop Iolanthe, of Cleveland, Captain A. M. McMeEachren, at 10:36:03. The latter did not have her racing canvas on and did not finish the race.

The starting gun for class D was a signal for the class E yachts, which are all Cleveland boats, to get ready, and only 10 minutes elapsed before a third gun started them off. This time the cutter Argo, Captain John Barth, passed first between the stake boats, and the race was clearly hers from the start. The official starting time of the Argo was 10:42:11. Twenty-three seconds later Captain C. H. Kraus brought the center-board sloop, Ida K., over the line. The cutter Petrel, Captain C. H. Christie, was next, making the start at 10:43:12, tain J. O. Gardner, at 10:45:11.

The most exciting part of the race was the six miles to windwards, which was really the test. In this the Louise easily kept the lead in her own class, making the distance in two hours and twelve minutes, but was closely followed by the Argo, of the other class, which made the distance in two minutes less time. The Surprise, of Class D, was the next boat to round the stake, and then came the Ida K., of Class E. The rest were bunched when the stakeboat was reached, and spinnakers were shaken out and the homeward stretch began. This was without special incident. The yacht Bessie got too close to the racers, and once got foul of the Petrel, but caused that boat only a few moments' delay. The Louise did not hold the lead so well as she had when beating to windward, but was the first to cross the line at 1:58:09, her correct time being 3:21:21. She was awarded the first prize, $30, while the second prize, $5, fell to the Surprise, which passed the starting point at 2:04:23, her correct time being 3:30:42.

The Argo was close on the stern of the Louise, and finished at 2:00:25. She was the prize winner of Class E, and carried off the honors of the day. Her correct time was better than that of the Louise, being 3:18:14. The prizes in Class E were $20 and $10, and the latter was captured by Ida K., which crossed the line at 2:07:35, her correct time beirig 3:21:33. This was also considerably better than that of the Louise.

The judges yesterday were Messrs. C. D. Lockwood, of Sandusky, and S. De Zelinski, of Buffalo, Commodore Gardner being chosen as third. The timekeepers were Colonel H. George Worthington, W. J. Akers and W. J. White. The decisions were satisfactory to all, and the Forest City house corridors were last evening the scene of an animated discussion of the day's sport.

To-day will be the most interesting of the regatta, and it is expected that besides the regular races in Classes A and B, the entries will consist of yachts whose correct length is forty feet and over. The Minx and Wasp may indulge in a trial of speed, while a brush between the steam yachts Say When, Winnifred and Tallalusa, in which the Lurlina, of New York, may join, is not among the improbabilities. Other events on the regular program are canoe and naptha launch races.

Louisville, Ky., August 17.—There is a row on between the Louisville base ball club directors and Second Baseman, Captain and Manager Fritz Peffer, over a question of salary. Peffer claims that he should be paid $4,000 in addition to $2,000 advanced him by George Williams, of Chicago, at the time the Chicago Association club was formed. Peffer threatens to leave the club if his demands for $2,000 are not acceded to.

Pittsburg, Aug. 17.—In the tenth inning, with the score standing 2 to 2, Terry, the first batter for the Pittsburgs, went to base on balls. Miller was hit above the elbow by a pitched ball directly afterward. The Washingtons claimed that Miller had intentionally permitted himself to be hit, but Umpire Mitchell allowed the batsman to take his base. On account of this decision the Senators refused to continue to play, and the game was forfeited to Pittsburg by the usual score of 9 to 0. Attendance 1,120.

THE MAVERICK BANK.

Indictments Against the Officials.

Asa Potter Released on a Forty Thousand Dollar Bond—The Others.

Boston, Aug. 17.—Four indictments have been reported against Asa P. Potter, Jonas P. French and Thomas Dana, ex-Maverick National bank officials. The grand jury reported before Justice Putnam in the United States circuit court. French was admitted to bail in $10,000, John Stetson going his surety. Dana has not yet been arrested or admitted to bail. This is in accordance with an arrangement between his counsel and United States District Attorney Allen.

Mr. Allen asked the court to fix Potter's bail at $20,000 on each count of the two indictments found against that defendant. He based his request on the ground that the attendance of Potter should be assured, not alone at the trial, but also during its progress till its conclusion.

Mr. E. P. Howe, counsel for Potter, stated that his client had been unrestrained and without bail for several weeks since the previous indictments were quashed and showed no desire to flee, that the district attorney had stated nothing that showed that Mr. Potter would not be present during the trial, and that the alleged wrong acts of his client did not redound to Mr. Potter's profit.

Justice Putnam fixed bail at $10,000 on the false entry indictment and at $20,000 on the false certificates. Grenville T. W. Braman was accepted as Potter's surety.

District Attorney Allen asked that the defendants present be arraigned, but on time being asked by defendants' counsel, the court fixed September 15, when the defendants will be arraigned, and they will have until then to oppose the indictments. Of the indictments against Potter one contains 80 counts and the other 30. The former charges him with making various false certificates of checks signed by "Irving A. Evans & Co.," the face value of them being between $100,000 and $200,000. In the latter Potter is charged with making false entries in the books of the bank, beginning in the spring of 1890 and ending October 12, 1891, and also with making false entries in reports to the comptroller of the currency, covering the years 1890 and 1891.

The charges against the remaining members of the triumvirate are by no means as extensive as those against Potter. The indictment against French charges him with a failure to report overdrafts of his own, amounting to about $60,000, in his reports to the comptroller of the currency May and July of 1891. The indebtedness of Directors French and Dana extended back a good many years. Witness gave a detailed statement of Potter's overborrowing, going into a mass of figures.

THE CENSUS FIGURES.

There May Not be Any People on the Moon,

But There are Several Thousand in Ohio—Interesting Information to File.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The census bulletin issued to day gives some figuers which will be of interest in Ohio. The number of persons in that state in 1890 between the ages of 5 to 17 years was 1,041,900. Of these 1,003,765 were native born and 38,135 foreign born. There were 24,475 colored persons between those ages.

The number of persons between 18 and 20 years was 229,131. Of these 213,649 were native and 15,482 were foreign born; 143,232 were of native and 64,727 of foreign parents; 5,733 were colored.

The number of males from 5 to 20 years inclusive in the state was 636,181, and the number of females 634,850.

The number of persons of both sexes from 5 to 20 years of age inclusive in 1890 was 1,271,031; in 1880 it was 1,163,188; the increase was 107,843, or 9.27 per cent.

The number of males in the state of militia ages, that is from 18 to 44 years, was 767,975. Of these 652,587 were native and 115,388 foreign born; 20,227 were colored; 453,289 had native and 179,415 foreign parents. The increase in "militia population in ten years was 120,883, or 18.68 per cent.

The number of males of voting age was 1,016,464, of whom 797,623 were native and 218,841 foreign born, and 25,922 colored. The increase in ten years was 189,887, or 22.97 per cent. In 1890 the native vote constituted 78.47 per cent. of the whole, and the foreign vote 21.53 per cent.

The classification of the foreign born males 21 years of age showed that 24,971 spoke English and 13,701 spoke other languages; 153,789 were naturalized and 5,595 had gt their "first papers." Taking the whole number of foreign born males 21 years and over as 100 per cent., the results regarding citizenship are reduced to percentages as follows: Total aliens, 17.67 per cent.; naturalized, 70.28 per cent.; first papers, 2.51 per cent; unknown 9.54 per cent.; 64.57 per cent. speak English; and 35.43 per cent. speak other languages.

DOWN IN GEORGIA.

Augusta, Me, Aug. 17.—The republicans wil open their campaign in this state this evening. Meetings have been arranged for in every town of importance, and many prominent peakers have been secured. Chairman Manley has been busy for the past month arranging for the first gun in the campaign, and it is now officially announced that Mr. Blaine will make a canvass of the state in the interest of his party.

HE WILL VISIT OHIO.

New York, Aug. 17.—Whitelaw Reid and Congressman Burrows, of Michigan, will leave for Springfield, Ill., on the Chicago limited, over the Pennsylvania road to-day. They will attend the convention of the Illinois state league of republican clubs. On his way east Mr. Reid will stop in Chicago. He will visit his mother in Xenia before returing.

WILL CONTINUE WORK.

Pittsburg, Aug. 17.—To-day the 3,200 employes of the American Iron works (Jones & Laughlin) met in conference, and after discussing, adopted the provisions of both and iron and steel scales. Work will be resumed to-morrow in all departments.

18,000 SHORT.

Wilmington, Aug. 17.—Charles Phillips, agent for the Wilmington & Northern and Baltimore & Ohio railroads and the U. S. Express company, has been missing since July 22. Suspicion was not excited until a week afterwards, when an examination of his accounts revealed a shortage aggegating $18,000.

RESIDENCE BURNED.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 17.—(Special)—Samuel Horn's residence was burned yesterday afternoon. Loss $,200. Covered by insurance.

POLITICS OF A DAY,

Wisconsin Republicans Meet in Milwaukee.

Michigan Democrats Assemble in Grand Rapids.

The Contest Between Dickinson and Campau—Spooner's Chances in the West.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 17.—Wisconsin republicans have assembled here to-day for the purpose of nominating a state ticket. Spooner's recent refusal to accept the gubernatorial nomination has thrown an element of uncertainty into the situation.

The republicans admit that Peck's administration has been in many respects a strong one, and they are anxious to put the best possible timber into their state ticket.

Spooner is the magnetic statesman of Wisconsin, and is undoubtedly the strongest man in the party.

But Mr. Spooner once occupied a seat in the United States senate, and his recollections of his sojourn in that body are so agreeable that he has determined to sacrifice everything in order to be free to run for a second term in the upper house on the expiration of Philetus Sawyer's term on the 4th of March next.

The recent action of the supreme court in the gerrymander case has given the republicans renewed hopes of controlling the next legislature, and it is therefore quite possible that Mr. Spooner will step into Mr. Sawyer's shoes.

With Spooner out of the field the republicans are at sea. There are possibilities by the score, and one of the strongest of them is W. H. Upham, of Marshfield. Jerry Rusk is also talked of, but it is doubtful if he would accept the nomination. It is probable that the convention will hold over until to-morrow, as the nominations had not been reached by 2:30.

IN MICHIGAN.

People's Party and Democrats Will Not Pull Together.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 17.—If the people's party leaders in this state have been cherishing any hopes of a coalition with the democrats they have reckoned without their host, as they would realize if they could have overheard a little of the conversation that passed between the delegates to the democratic state convention as they loitered around the hotels this morning, waiting for the noon hour.

The democracy of Michigan has been patiently holding out the olive branch to the populists ever since the presidential nominations were made, but the third party convention held a couple of weeks ago ignored the democrats, and placed a ticket in the field that it would be impossible for them to indorse.

Consequently the democrats are unsparing in their denunciation of the people's party and say that if the state goes republican it will be their fault. The race for the gubernatorial nomination is likely to throw further light on the Dickinson-Campau fight, which has been smouldering for the last six months.

Campau and Dickinson both want to name their man for the head of the ticket. Dickinson declares that Campau is, and always has been, a traitor to Cleveland, and ought to be ousted from his position at the head of the state democracy. Then Don M. would like, in the event of a democratic legislature, to be sent to the United States senate, while Campau has given out that if the democrats are to select a successor to Stockbridge he will do the naming.

For the governorship, Allen B. Morse has the support of the Dickinson wing, while the Campau men are supporting Gov. Winans. The convention was called to order at high noon, but the nominations will probably not be made until late in the evening or to-morrow morning.

CORRECTING CHILDREN.

Parents Must Begin Early to Apply the Needed Remedy.

"Spare the rod and spoil the child" is one of the most venerable of maxims, and, if true, some one has a great deal to answer for in the way of spoiled children, says a writer in the New York Ledger. There has of late been a good deal of discussion in the public prints upon the subject of punishing children. To spank or not to spank, to apply the switch or to use moral suasion, to wield the slipper or to dissolve into tears and to plead with unruly offspring, to hang them up until their courage has died out, so to speak, and has left them docile, or to shut them in cellars, attics or dark closets—these and scores of other methods have been discussed until it would seem that the entire subject must be worn threadbare. And yet the infant disobeys, is rebellious, restive, defiant, perhaps violent, and something must be done. As a rule, in these cases, the long-suffering parent endures and waits, hopes the child will do better and postpones punishment until, alarmed at some new outbreak, patience gives way, and, whether it be switch, rattan, shingle, slipper or dusting-cloth, it matters little, the blows fall like rain on the offender, and continue, as a rule, until the whipper stops from sheer exhaustion of body and spirit. And, because there is no improvement in the child's conduct, it is taken for granted that punishment is a failure.

And so it is when administered in this fashion. A child should never be corrected when the parent is angry. This is one of the fundamental principles of good government. It is claimed by many disciplinarians that a child should never know what a blow means. This is all very well for some children, but there are natures which cannot be controlled in this way. There is occasionally a disposition which nothing but force will subdue, and, even then, it must be so forceful as to awe and terrify the spirit of insubordination into unquestioning obedience. There is little use in parleying with such natures. The struggle usually comes early, and must be met without the least hesitation. Once give way to the child's will, and it may rouse a spirit of resistance which long months, perhaps years, of subsequent training will fail to conquer.

By teaching a child that its present and its future welfare depend on its own actions, you foster a true and noble independence that is sure to have its own reward. Let the bonds of restraint fit very easily; if the child never feels them, so much the better; but let them be strong enough to control. Good laws are absolute freedom for good spirits, and right is beyond all law and has no need of it, for it is the living embodiment of all law.

Obedience should begin with life; indeed, should be an inheritance.

Whether parents are to govern by the rod, or by firm and gentle means, they must begin early and do their correcting carefully, and never attempt to enforce rules unless their own nerves are steady and their heads and tempers are under perfect control.

Mr. Chas. N. Hauer

CAUGHT A TARTER.

He had what is vulgarly called a "jag," and he seemed to very glad of it. But though his steps were unsteady and his observations on things in general were more hilarious than coherent, he entertained no hard feelings toward anybody. In fact, he was fairly in love with himself, asd all the rest of mankind. That is the way that "jags" affect some people. He was a seafaring man and he had lost his bearings somehow, says the New York Herald.

It was late at night and he was tacking through a crosstown street up town in the hope of coming across some familiar landmark which would enable him to ascertain the exact latitude and longitude and shape his course for his lodgings. He was occupying more of the sidewalk than a man in a normal condition of sobriety needs. So it happened that he bumped heavily against a young swell, who, with a couple of companions, was homeward bound from the club.

"Dem your awkwardness!" exclaimed the young swell. "Can't you see where you're going?"

"Begsh pardon," responded the sailor cheerily; "no offench meant; shtried put m' helm hard a port, but ship wouldn't ansher; ship's got more shail 'n she can carry; mush take in reef; no offench meant, shipmate."

"The fellow is demned familiar," observed one of the trio to the swell who had been bumped. "If I were you, Charley, I'd teach him a lesson he won't forget in a hurry, by Jove. It's a fine chance to try some of the Professor's fine points."

Charley had evidently been taking lessons in the noble art.

"Hang me," he exclaimed, enthusiastically, "If I haven't got a jolly good mind to give the nausty bruit a lesson that'll teach him to respect a gentleman when he meets him."

Charley was plainly of the opinion that it would be an easy task for him to thrash the drunken sailor with the aid of such pugilistic science as he had mastered, and he appreciated the fact that he would thereby obtain the reputation of being "regular devil of a fellow, don't you know."

"Wash 'er looking f' schrap, shipmate?" queried the sailor, dimly comprehending the tenor of the remarks he had overheard. "If ish any 'comdashun ish all right, jus' shail in; alwaysh glad 'commadash shipmate."

That speech dispelled any lingering hesitation which Charley may have felt about embarking in an enterprise which promised so much fame and so little task. Peeling off his overcoat and handing it to one of his friends, he put up his fists in the style most approved of by the devotees of the Marquis of Queensbury rules. His first landed squarely between the eyes of the sailor and sent him sprawling on the sidewalk.

"Well done, Charley," chimed in his two companions in unison. "The Professor himself couldn't have done it better."

But it didn't seem to hurt the sailor, or even ruffle his temper.

"Hooray!" he shouted, staggering to his feet, "Noshing like schrap f' fun. Shall in, shipmate. Glad 'm able 'comdash you."

He made a lunge at the swell, who avoided the blow by stepping aside, and fell to the ground again, impelled thither by his own impetus and lack of stability. But he didn't seem to mind it. He picked himself up again with as much celerity as he was capable of, and with genial good nature again bade his opponent to "shail in." So he did, and again the sailor was capsized. The same performance was thrice repeated, the sailor each time regaining his feet, apparently none the worse for being knocked down, and on each occasion encouraging his foe to renewed exertions by urging him to "shail in."

"Why don't you knock the fellow out?" asked the man who was holding Charley's overcoat.

"I believe I'll do it next time," confidently replied Charley, who was puffing a good deal from his exertions.

Thus far the sailor hadn't landed a single blow. But the next round his brawny fist came in contact with something. It was Charley's Grecian nose. The force of the impact sent Charley spinning half way across the street and landed him on the flat of his back.

"Hooray! Shail in!" shouted the tar when he had recovered from his astonishment on discovering that he still retained his equilibrium.

But for the space of half a minute Charley was oblivious to everything in this world or the next.

"Did he throw a bomb at me?" he stammered faintly, when he had recovered consciousness.

But his companions carried him off without revealing the painful truth to him.

"Losh o' fun scrappin'," said the good-natured sailor, as the procession moved off. "Shtry it again shmuzzer day; alwaysh glad 'commodash shipmate."

"It is a great mistake to suppose that a drunken man cannot strike a hard blow," remarked an individual who had been a disinterested spectator of the fray. "The trouble is that he doesn't see straight, and is, in consequence, more apt to miss his mark than hit it. But when he falls he goes down limp, and isn't likely to hurt himself. Science won't make amends for lack of strength, and the sailor, even while drunk, was three times as strong as the dude. It will teach the dude a lesson. Dudes shouldn't get pugnacious and imagine that they are fighters simply because they know a thing or two about boxing."

A MATCH.

If love were what the rose is,
And I were like the leaf,
Our lives would grow together,
In sad and singing weather,
Brown fields or flowerful closes,
Green pleasures or gray griefs—
If love were what the rose is,
And I were like the leaf.

If I were what the words are,
And love were like the tune,
With double sound and single
Delight our lips would mingle
With kisses glad as birds are
That get sweet rain at noon—
If I were what the words are,
And love were like the tune.

If you were April's lady,
And I were lord in May,
We'd throw with leaves for hours,
And draw for days with flowers
Till day and night were shady
And night were bright like day—
If you were April's lady,
And I were lord in May.

What the Coroner Says.

Coroner Beckwith held an inquest yesterday afternoon in the case of William Sill, who fell from a car and was allowed to die with no medical aid. The coroner will not render a verdict for several days, but he says he gathered from the evidence that death undoubtedly resulted from injuries received from the accident, combined with the liquor he had drunk. No autopsy was made in the case.

Increasing their Membership.

Barbers' union, No. 5, held an interesting and well attended meetnig last evening, initiating three new members. This is one of the largest and strongest unions in the city, and is always at the front in all matters of interest of labor. The matter of parading on Labor day was brought up and discussed, but laid over until the next meeting.

The National W. R. C.

A letter to a friend from Mrs. Kate B. Sherwood, Canton, Ohio, officially announces that Mrs. General John A. Logan has consented to allow her name to stand for national president of the Women's Relief corps, at the coming convention to be held at Washington, D. C., September 20. Mrs. Logan will no doubt be elected by acclamation, so well is she, and was her noble husband, Gen. John A. Logan, known by the American people.

Want the Commissioners to Act.

Attorney L. H. Wilkison was before the county commissioners this morning, representing the relatives and friends of August Redding, who was murdered by a burglar some time ago, and requested that a reward of $500 be offered for the arrest and evidence to convict the murderer.

Brothers of the deceased offer $100, which will leave $400 for the commissioners to make up. The matter will be decided later on.

Major Miles H. Jennings.

On the recommendation of Gen. Peter Weidner, of Dayton, Miles H. Jennings, of Toledo, has been appointed an aide-de-camp, with the rank of major, on the general's staff by Supreme Chancellor Shaw and Gen. J. R. Carnahan. Mr. Jennings is a member of Toledo lodge, No. 20, K. P., and also of Custer division. He has always taken an active interest in Pythian affairs and the compliment just bestowed is merited. Major Jennings' friends extend congratulations. Ah there, major!

The Cowan Assignment.

An inventory and appraisement of the estate of W. J. Cowan & Co. were filed in the probate court to-day. It shows the total assets to be $418.21, and liabilities $1,188.41.

In Justice Austin's court this morning the Toledo Milling company entered suit against W. J. Cowan & Co., to establish a partner's liability, holding that the company in the firm is responsible. Cowan claims in defense that he is individually the firm, company and all. On this question the case will be contested.

Will Celebrate.

The Home Aid association met at Odd Fellows' temple last evening and appointed committees to make arrangements for the annual celebration of the anniversary of the order, and make their report at the next meeting. The date of the anniversary is October 4, and just what form the celebration will take is not known, but it is probable that there will be dancing, games, a literary entertainment, etc. The following committees will have the matter in charge: Chairman, Mr. M. Prosser; Dr. Clark, Mr. Totten, Mr. Patch, Mrs. Dayen, Mrs. Bartholff, Miss Ena Ledyard and Mrs. Patch. A vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Clark for courtesies extended at the picnic held at his home. Routine business was disposed of and the meeting adjourned to meet Tuesday evening, September 6.

The War Is Over.

Peace reigns at the free employment office once more, Messrs. Smith and Murphy having arrived at an amicable settlement of the difficulty by Mr. Murphy turning over the office to Mr. Smith, who took formal possession late Tuesday afternoon and is getting down to business today. Mr. Smith refused to be interviewed and said that he had got all the advertising he wanted, and henceforth when his name appeared in print he hoped it would only be in connection with his legitimate business. When asked when he would appoint an assistant, he said that he expected to make no change. Miss Skehan had been recommended to him by mutual friends and he hoped she would soon be able to resume her duties. This will be very gratifying to Miss Skehan's many friends. Mr. Smith said the free employment bureau would be kept up to its present high standard. While Mr. Murphy's friends regret that the matter has terminated in this manner, they are glad that the matter has been adjusted to the satisfaction of both parties. Mr. Murphy has made an excellent official, and Mr. Smith will do well if he succeeds in equaling him.

Saw Great Sights in the West.

A Bee this morning conversed with Eminent Commander Henry W. Bigelow, of Toledo Commandery Knights Templar, who has just returned from Denver. He was chock full of enthusiasm over the trip.

"I have witnessed a great many encampments but this was the finest I ever attended, and one long to be remembered with pleasure," said Mr. Bigelow. "The parade was the largest and the decorations the most artistic. Thursday night we went to Colorado Springs and the next day visited the Garden of the Gods and the beautiful canyon of the Cheyenne. We next went to Leadville and passed on to the heights of the Rocky mountains and then to Glenwood Springs and took a swim in the largest pool. Friday we passed through the Royal Gorge, visited Pueblo, and then back to Denver. The next day we left by the way of Omaha. Arriving at Chicago we visited the world's fair buildings and the Masonic buildings and arrived in Toledo safe and sound. We where, the western people giving us a cordwhre, the western people giving us a cordial welcome."

Sir Bigelow has been presented with a silver decanter and six tumblers, and Sir C. C. Jenkins with a beautiful placque, from those who were on the trip.

THREE JOBS DONE LAST NIGHT.

Burglars Enter Bartlett's Furniture Store and Mason's Tailor Shop.

Burglars entered two business places last night. They got into Bartlett's furniture store on Jefferson street through the cellar, and, prying open the cash drawer with a chisel, stole $5 and a lot of postage stamps. Nothing else was disturbed. They entered Mason's tailor shop on Superior street by forcing a rear window and tried to get at the safe, but for some reason or other failed. The clothing was thrown all over the floor, and evidently the thieves togged themselves out, as they left their old clothes behind.

Harry Dyer, who boards at Cumming's boarding house on Superior street, near Adams, had a strange bed-fellow last night who disappeared in the gloaming, taking Dyer's watch with him.

MAUMEE VALLEY PIONEERS.

Annual Meeting at Liberty Center on Thursday, the 18th.

To-morrow the Maumee Valley Pioneer association will hold its annual reunion at Liberty Center, Henry county.

A Wabash train has been chartered for the occasion under the auspices of the association, which will leave Toledo at 9 o'clock a. m. After the formal opening services, an address of welcome and response will be made..

Then will come dinner, which will be followed by an address by Hon. J. M. Ashley, of this city. The remainder of the day will be devoted to volunteer speeches and a general good time.

The association was organized by men who shared together the privations and hardships of pioneer life in Northwestern Ohio, and its object is to give the members an opportunity to mingle with each other and renew acquaintance.

These excursions and reunions are intended to cement closer relations between old and young pioneers, and give a day of recreation to tired farmers and business men.

A large turnout is expected and all who attend will meet friends and have a jolly time.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

"Elder Updike Criticised."

To the Editor:—"Truth" has waxed valient in the fight over Updike. Let "Truth" come out as naked truth and sign his name and we may take some notice of him.

Pastor Eleventh Street Church of Christ.

SUNDAY TRAINS

On the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Railway.

Commencing Sunday, August 21, the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railway will put on two Sunday trains each way between Toledo and Owosso. Trains will leave Toledo 7:30 a. m. and 5:00 p. m., and will arrive at Toledo at 11:15 a. m. and 9:15 p. m. This will give Toledo people an opportunity to spend Sunday with friends in Michigan, to enjoy a day's fishing at Whitmore Lake or at Zuke or Strawberry lakes, Hamburg Junction, and return the same day. They can also visit Ann Arbor, the "Athens of America," where is located the University of Michigan, the largest college on the American continent. Tickets good for Sunday only will be sold to Whitmore Lake at 75 cents for the round trip. All other stations at one fare for the round trip. W. H. BENNETT, G. P. A.

A HANDSOME NURSERY PICTURE FREE.

One of the most sensible features of the modern kindergarten system of educating children, is to educate the mind, through the eye, to the beautiful things in nature and art. Teaching children to decorate screens or panels in their rooms with attractive pictures, is the latest fad. A well-known St. Louis firm is the leader in this wise movement, and has issued a beautiful seven-colored plate, "Mamma's Darlings." This work of art will be sent to any address by J. A. Pozzoni, manufacturer of the celebrated Pozzoni's Complexion Powder, 143 So. Eighth street, St. Louis, Mo., upon receipt of four cents in stamps to pay postage.

Stmr. Messenger | Will not run to Monroe to-morrow. Resumes regular daily trips Friday.

You can go to Dundee, Milan, Ann Arbor, Howell, or Owosso, Sunday, and return same day. Two trains each way between Toledo and Owosso on T., A. A. & N. M. R'y, every Sunday. Tickets for these trains at special low rates.

The second annual moonlight excursion of the Clerks' Mutual Protective union will take place on Thursday night, Aug. 18, on the steamer City of Toledo. A fine concert will be given by the Whiting Male Quartet, and other local musical talent. Tony Leon's full orchestra will provide music for dancing. The boat leaves the foot of Madison street promptly at 8:30. A good time is assured. Tickets, 25c, Turtle Light and return.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our thanks to the many friends who did so much in our recent bereavement towards alleviating our grief, and in particular to Mr. John Jacobi, Mr. Holland, Mrs. Zahula and Mrs. Remaine for special kindness and favors shown after the death of our beloved son, Johnny. May He who rewards all not forget your gratitude.

MR. and MRS. J. J. VOGELSANG and Family.

KOKOLENE | FOR ALL CLEANSING PURPOSES.

Splendid fishing at Whitmore, Zuke and Strawberry Lakes on T., A. A. & N. M. R'y. Two trains each way every Sunday. Round trip 75 cents.

The New York state militia are guarding railway property. More "protection to labor."

"Miners and militia, down in Tennessee," what's the matter with the times in this "country of the free?"

The voice of the people is heard in England through a Gladstone, albeit there is a crown and a scepter above him.

Henry M. Stanley says he will never again come to the United States. No more ducats here for Henry, and it is English honor he is craving.

If Frau Wagner will not allow the production of "Parsifal" at the world's fair, "why, then," says the Mail, "Chicago will be able to make a good deal of noise some other way."

As might have been expected—the rumor that Senator Hoar would resign is without foundation. The resigners in either party are few and far between.

And now there's a strike in a big block of New York sweat shops where the breechesmakers do congregate. The Poles, Russians and Hungarians demand more of the benefits of protection from foreign pauper labor.

The sweltering multitudes mop their faces, with thanks, when they read that the recent weather has been good for corn. Especially are a class of politicians thankful: a good corn crop helps to vindicate the McKinley tariff law!

The cholera is marching towards St. Petersburg and the crops for another year are not so promising as they were earlier in the season. The woes of Russia, avoidable and unavoidable, bid fair to become the concern of the civilized world. In the meantime Mr. Talmage is going to hurry home to set the minds of the American people straight about the czar and his rule. He "took tea" with the czar and knows more about him and his country than Kennan or Tolstoi or Tourgeneff.

The New York World offers a prize of ten dollars for the clearest and most convincing letter, limited to 500 words, received before October 1, from girl or woman employed in shop or factory, stating why she prefers her work to that of domestic service. If the concensus of information that this offer must call forth shall greatly aid in solving the perpetual problem, then the World will have done missionary work indeed. The majority of women in the land can diagnose the case correctly, but the prescription for a remedy is another thing.

The Halifax Herald refers to the Homestead lock-out, the miners' war and the negro question as "social problems in the United States, the solution of which will sorely test the stability of its republican institutions."

It is not strange that the Halifaxans or any other outsiders should take this view of the question, but it is odd to hear an organ like the Boston Journal retort, that the strikes are subdued without difficulty and "the southern negroes are exercising their rights at the ballot box." The Journal was a fierce advocate of the force bill.

Premier Gladstone's cabinet is satisfactory to his constituency, all but the extreme radicals. His lieutenants in making up the slate are said to have been Lord Rosebery, John Morley, Lord Spencer and Sir William Harcourt. It is probable his own wishes were somewhat modified in deference to the wishes of his sovereign. Whether Queen Victoria was "happy to meet" the government leader or not, he presented himself at Osborne with a tube rose in his buttonhole and kissed the plump hand of the queen, according to immemorial usage. She "invited him in to tea," and he slept at Osborne as is customary, on these important occasions. From every station along the route, Mr. Gladstone sent dispatches to his wife, acquainting her with his health and progress. His return from Osborne, on the day following, was an ovation, all along the route. And so the English government is equipped, and ready to enter upon one of the most momentous sessions in its history. Every lover of freedom, democracy and of true statesmanship, will wish the grand old man health and prosperity, to the end which he has set himself to attain.

NATURAL GAS IN SANDUSKY.

The council of Sandusky has passed a twenty cent natural gas ordinance. The people of that city are satisfied with the rate, but reasonably demand a good supply of gas. The situation in Toledo is similar to that of Sandusky. There are not fifty consumers on the Northwestern lines who object to the twenty cent rate. The members of the common council understand the situation thoroughly and ought to rise abve personal motives and legislate for the city at large. The twenty cent rate has come to stay in Toledo and it would be well for the council to ratify it for the Northwestrn, and well for the city gas trustees to fix the same price for the public line. Such advancement in the city line would be the best practical business movement of the whole gas enterprise. Sentiment and business sometimes mix well, but the gas question is no longer one of sentiment. It is now wholly one of business.

"THE TRICK OF AVERAGES".

"When an orator begins to discourse of averages," says a writer in Harper's Weekly, "honest men should shun him; he has entered upon a method of deception, willingly or unwillingly." He illustrates the point by presenting tables of domestic economy, as prepared for argument, on the average plan. Like this for instance:

He represents the prices at the beginning of the period of 100. The additions show the percentage of rise in price; the substractions, the decrease. He is cunning in composing his table, but its details are not for the public. The people who listen to him must be contented with his result. Here is his method:

Meat	100.75
Bread	120.00
Pepper	73.00
Mustard	60.00
Eggs	98.00
Butter	98.50
Ice-cream	53.00
Average	87.60

"Under the benign influences of this law (or this administration, as the case may be)," asserts the orator, "the cost of living has gone down in this fair land of ours 12.40 per cent."

And the conscientious American citizen, listening to the delusive song of averages, wonders why it is that the truthful figures of the oratorical economist tell one thing, while his butcher's and baker's bills tell him another. If he could see the method by which the average is obtained, he would realize how figures may be made to lie.

It is unnecessary to show how the average cost of living is sometimes determined by including hammers and tongs and patent medicines in the table as if they were of the same value as food and clothes.

If the American citizen wants to vote intelligently on the tariff question, he must not permit himself to be deceived by averages.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

There is one source of information, in this "campaign of education" that is greatly neglected, namely, the great volume of knowledge of events, political and otherwise, the reports and statistics that are furnished in public documents, issued by authority, at the capital of the country, paid for out of the people's treasury, and to be had by any person for the asking. The reports of the United States consuls, tinctured as they are and may be with political flavor, are yet the most comprehensive and reliable, the best present-day history of life in foreign countries that is obtainable. The best understanding of the commercial characteristics of the people and of the methods of governments in connection, is to be found in these reports, many of which are the result of much care in preparation, and possess more interest for the inquiring mind than belabored fiction, which weaves a weary fabric of a tale for the purpose of dragging in one-tenth the foreign "realism."

The agricultural reports, for instance, how many farmers avail themselves of the contents of them? They pay willingly and liberally to support an agricultural department of the government and to have these statistics and reports printed, bound and post-carried, but there the interest in them seems to end. If their representatives at Washington pay them the compliment to send the books, unsolicited, it is considered a neat little courtesy, something to make a joke about, and the chief uses to which the volumes are put in the household are to be placed in a chair that is too low for the children at the table, or to be given to the little ones to amuse themselves with the pictures ,or to build bridges of. This is "a sketch from real life," in the house of a plodding, faithful farmer who needed a deal of light on the subjects of shallow plowing and deep plowing, ditching, and tiling, rotation of crops, and the best kind of soil for certain kinds of fruits and grains.

There is small excuse (except, indeed, the plea for time) for lack of information on almost any subject under the sun in this era of cheap reading and of continual investigation, experiment and reports; and when the printed matter is laid on the door stone, to be had almost for the picking up. There are tomes of information for the public, well-printed, well-bound, put in interesting form and available style, piled up in the government printing house at Washington, simply waiting the bid of the people to whom it belongs, that it be sent to them.

SOME RAILROAD INFORMATION.

Poor's Railway Manual is the standard of railroad information and is the reliable guide to railway investments. This sentence is not of an advertising nature, but only promises the statistics here presented which are taken from that work, the volume for 1892 being just from the press.

There are 170,601 miles of trackage in the United States, equal to seven tracks entirely around the world.

The value of all the railroad property in this country is $11,110,335,276, a sum so enormous as almost to baffle computation—wealth sufficient to transact the business of the greatest nation on earth. The liabilities of these companies in the aggregate amount to $10,765,626,041, of which the funded and unfunded debt is $5,956,449,390, a sum nearly three times as great as the national debt at the close of the war of the rebellion. The net earnings of all the railways of the country the past year were $356,227,883, a good balance, showing a healthy increase.

The number of passengers carried during the year 1891 was 556,015,802, and the number of miles traveled was 13,316,925,239, an average of ten trips of twenty-two miles each for every man, woman and child in the United States. What a moving race we are, anyway.

The entire system of American railways is the growth of 62 years. In 1830 the first road was constructed, the mileage that year being only twenty-three. The next year the increase was 72, and the following year 134. In 1850 the total mileage reached 9,021. Since that year the greatest number of miles of new track was constructed in 1887, being 12,878, and the least in 1861, being 660. In 1891 the increase of trackage was 3,899.

The equipment figures are also large. There were 34,022 locomotives in 1891, an increase of 100 per cent. in ten years. This statement of increase seems almost incredible. The number of passenger cars is 24,497, baggage, mail and express cars 7,368, and freight cars 1,110,304.

These paragraphs of statistics might be extended almost indefinitely with interesting and profitable results. The logic of the figures is that the growth of the country presents the marvelous era in history and illustrates to the rest of the world that the business of this great republic demands such extensive improvements of travel and such facilities for transportation as are nowhere else known on the whole earth. The greatest of all nations, the United States grows and grows. Its development cannot be circumscribed, as its power cannot be shaken. It is great in and of itself, yet its possibilities are still of conjecture only. The procession is still moving.

Their Mission.

Almost every train from the south to this county now brings a fresh installment of the dusky tribe of Ham. There are many negroes now in this county that were not here two or three weeks ago. What their mission is we are unable to say; but they are here and they still come. We have seen many ourselves in the past week who are entire strangers in this county and no doubt they will stay here till after the election and then disappear as usual for four years.—Farmers' and Laborers' Light, Princeton, Ind.

Claimed for Every Party.

On all the living issues of the day, considering the candidates who are called upon to impersonate them, with a broad view of the economic dispute to be settled at the polls in November, Judge Gresham—should he make declaration of his principles to-morrow—would cast his fortunes with Grover Cleveland and the cause of tariff reform.—Chicago Herald.

GLADSTONE'S CABINET.

Various Comment on the Men Selected.

The Chronicle Thinks the Premier Made This Choice on a Theatrical Star Plan.

London, Aug. 17.—The Chronicle thinks Mr. Gladstone selected the members of his cabinet rather on the theatrical star company system. It says: "Forces of genius are with difficulty discernible, but they are sound and faithful men who will stick to business and to the leader in sunshine and perhaps will form as good a ministry as the premier, who is himself a ministry of all the talents could wish for while he has to depend upon a vacillating electorate and a hetreogeneous majority."

The Chronicle considers a young peer willing to say "ditto" to Mr. Morley, a better appointment as Irish viceroy than Lord Bressey, whose sympathy with Ireland is a trifle doubtful. The Chronicle complains of the giving of a seat to Arnold Morley when important rural interests by the ministry of agriculture are left out. It thinks Mr. Buxton equally as worthy of office as Mr. Asquith and Mr. Acland.

The News says: "We consider it immaterial who the viceroy of Ireland is just now, as long as Mr. Morley has the practical conduct of the government of Ireland; but it is satisfactory to know that Baron Houghton is regarded as a man of great promise and as likely to go far in a career of statesmanship. The new government, so far as it has been arranged, has a good deal of youth about it. Messrs. Asquith, Acland and Arnold Morley are examples of rapid but well deserved elevation. The heaviest work will fall upon Mr. Gladstone, Lord Spencer, Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt and John Morley as the inner council for drafting the home rule bill. It can hardly be said that the new cabinet is not a duly representative one. Nor can the old complaint be made that the peers have had it all their own way."

The Freeman's Journal (Dublin) in an editorial article on the new government, says: "If there is substance in the modern theory of heredity, Baron Houghton is likely to be a justly popular lord lieutenant of Ireland.

'His father was a gentleman and a scholar. The son is said to be active, distinguished and popular in his own country, endowed with political ambition and ability and with wealth and personal accomplishments that will enable him to fill the position with dignity and success.

"But unquestionably the chief lesson of the appointment of Baron Houghton as viceroy, without a seat in the cabinet, is that John Morley will take the administration of Ireland completely into his own hands. We trust and believe his administration will be thorough.

"Hitherto a change of government has but slightly changed the administration of Ireland. This, the first government ever elected with distinct mandate to do full justice to Irish opinion, means a revolution in Castle methods."

The Times says: "It is not without significance that Sir O. George Trevelyan's political promotion moves like his political professions, in a circle. Baron Houghton is a surprise, but he possesses important qualifications for the post and in spite of the obvious disadvantage which bespeaks public sympathy there is every reason to believe he will prove as efficient a representative of the sovereign as that mongrel, a home rule viceroy, can be.

"Taken as a whole the ministry can scarcely be expected to display, with one or two exceptions, that independence of thought which was formerly supposed to be an honorable distinction of Liberal administration. It approaches closely Mr. Gladstone's ideal of himself as the government and his colleagues as the chief clerks., which he is unable to realize when he had independent colleagues like Lord Hartington, John Bright, the Duke of Argyll and Joseph Chamberlain. Putting Lord Rosebery aside, the cabinet is not likely to have much influence on Mr. Gladstone's policy."

The Standard thinks Baron Houghton old enough to have given some evidence of the qualities essential to a statesman. It promises that the new government will fall in the trial. Lord Rosebery's appointment, it says, is evidence of the conservatism with which his more advanced admirers have often reproached Mr. Gladstone and is a warrant for predicting that Mr. Gladstone's bark will prove worse than his bite.

The Telegraph announces that Lord Salisbury, in an unselfish spirit, will accept no distinction from the crown except the privilege of wearing the Windsor uniform, which has only been granted during the present reign to Lord Melbourne, Lord Palmerston and Earl Grey.

AN ESCAPED LUNATIC

Captured in Toledo With Stolen Property on Him.

He Got Out of the Insane Asylum at Cleveland and Will Rest at the Toledo Workhouse.

A man giving the name of James Wolf came to Toledo a few days ago and stopped at the Montreal house. His looks aroused the suspicions of the detectives, and he was placed under arrest. On being searched he was found to have four new gold watches, a quantity of jewelry, safe keys, skeleton keys and numerous other things on his person. He said that he was down in the middle part of the state, and one day he met an Italian peddler who sold him the watches for about $2 each.

This tale didn't wash, and inquiry was made in hopes of finding out who he was. It was learned last night that the man was none other than James Miller, who escaped recently from the insane asylum at Cleveland.

He is a dangerous lunatic, and has a mania for robbery and has done a number of big jobs.

A dispatch was received from Cleveland stating that if a case was not made out against him to send him back to the asylum.

Wolf or Miller was given $50 and costs and 30 days in police court this morning. He has worked the insanity dodge twice but it don't go here.

Cold, Hard Facts.

Last year we imported $43,000,000 worth of woolen goods, on which the tariff was $35,000,000 or 80 per cent. The cost of every dollar's worth of that stuff to the man or woman who bought it to wear was increased by the tariff, the profits of importer, jobber and retail merchant to about $2.70. At last the consumer foots the whole bill of the tariff. last year he paid 128 per cent. on imported cotton goods and 176 per cent. on imported woolens.—Atlanta Journal.

A WAR SONG.

Awake! arise! ye patriot brave,
Your duty to fulfill!
Rush in your righteous wrath to save
The land from threatened ill!
While treachery's vengeful shadows flit
Like demons everywhere,
And Baby Cleveland wants to sit
In grampa's baby chair!

Shall this spoiled darling vanquish that
Sweet Hoosier youkit? Nay!
She'll never wear her grampa's hat—
She isn't built that way!
Out—out upon the pampered chit—
The patriot legions swear
That Baby Cleveland shall not sit
In grampa's baby's chair.

So come! We'll lift our standard high—
A tiny pair of pants!
This "In Hoc Signo" 'll petrify
All Mugwump sycophants!
Stern common sense shall soon outwit
Each sentimental snare,
And Baby Cleveland shall not sit
In grampa's baby's chair!

THAT ROBISON ROAD

Is To Be Constructed on the East Side.

And Will Connect with the Belt Line—A Prospective Industry.

The proposed steam railroad to be constructed by David Robison, jr., is to be built on the East Side, and not to the new city park, as intimated.

The line will connect with the Belt line near its junction with Grand avenue, and will run to the river at a point near the Malleable iron works.

The principal object of the line will be to open up two tracts of land owned by Mr. Robison with a view of having manufacturing industries locate there.

Mr. Robison, it is said, has an important factory in view that may locate here, and it is probable that within the present year East Toledo will have another valuable industry.

There is a slight hitch in the project just now, however. Mr. Robison, to reach the Belt line, must crowd the Valentine tract. A deal had been verbally closed, it is said, with Mr. Valentine, whereby Mr. Robison was to have the right of way for something like $1,700. Mr. Valentine, it seems, has changed his mind, and now asks $3,500. This Mr. Robison will not pay, and condemnation is in order.

EAST TOLEDO PARKS.

Selections Made by the Committee Approved

At a Public Meeting of Residents, and the Same Will be Submitted to the Park Commissioners.

The residents of East Toledo have decided where they want the parks located.

As was announced in the Bee, a meeting of the citizens was held a short time ago, to discuss the park question. At the conclusion a committee was appointed to go over the ground and select the most suitable spots for a series of parks.

Another meeting was held last night, and the committee submitted a report. The committee recommended that an additional 35 acres be secured adjoining the Collins donation, which will make a park of 70 acres. Another tract bounded by Starr avenue, Nevada, Woodville, Fifth and Oak streets was selected. There are about 16 acres in this piece.

A third locality was decided upon in a section of about 100 acres, north of Willow cemetery, in section 8, Oregon township. This land lies just outside of the city line, and is about a mile and a half from Cherry street bridge.

Another site was chosen up the river, along the river road of about 10 acres between the river and the road. The report was unanimously adopted and will be submitted to the park commissioners for consideration.

LOST THEIR LIVES

In One of London's Model Lodging Houses.

A Border Believed to Have Gone to Bed With a Pipe in His Mouth.

London, Aug. 17.—At Tredegar, a flourishing industrial town in Monmouthshire, last night, four lives were lost by the burning of the Model lodging house erected for unmarried men to live in. After the seventy inmates of the Model lodging house had retired the building was discovered to be on fire. There was a frantic rush to escape. They could be seen hanging from upper windows, some of them in a nude condition, and the cries of others could be heard, unable to escape from the burning structure. When the fire was extinguished it was found that four of the inmates had perished and that a large number were burned and otherwise injured.

The cause of the fire is being investigated to-day. It is believed to have originated in a room of a lodger who had a habit of smoking in bed, and who perhaps fell asleep with a pipe in his mouth. Other causes are also given.

The awful affair had greatly shaken faith in the security, so far as fire is concerned, of the workingmen's model lodging houses.

ACRE PROPERTY

In the Vicinity of the Ketcham Farm

Being Secured by Believers in the Value of Toledo Earth—Another Good-Sized Purchase by J. F. Kumler.

Property in the vicinity of the Ketcham farm, near Auburndale, recently secured for park purposes, is moving like hot cakes, to use an easy expression.

John Kumler seems to have unlimited faith in property in this vicinity. A short time ago he bought the Isherwood tract just adjoining the park for $10,000. He has since bought the Charles Evans tract on Bancroft street, between Auburn avenue and Clinton street. There are 25 acres in the piece, for which it is stated he paid $15,000.

Another sale of business property was closed yesterday.

John C. Dorst, of Chicago, sold the northwest 60 feet of lot 1514, Vistula division, to C. K. Heath and Flora E. Peck for $10,500.

The property in question is located near the northwest corner of Adams and Eleventh streets. Two brick blocks and a frame structure are located on the site.

IT OUGHT TO BE POPULAR.

Bakers as a class are not particularly progressive in a business way. There are exceptions, however, and one of the most notable of these is the Worts-Kirk-Bigelow bakery of this city. Mr. Richmond never lets slip an opportunity to please the public. Even the issues of the presidential campaign have received his attention, and the result is a "Grandfather's Hat" cake that has made its appearance within the last few days, and which no doubt will be found at all the leading grocery stores. It is said to be a delightful cake, and if a name goes for anything, it ought to be immensely popular.

Quite a number of persons who have bought lots in Fair Ground addition have sold out their holdings at a handsome profit on the price paid.

In Cookery

The ROYAL BAKING POWDER, besides rendering the food more palatable and wholesome, is, because of its higher leavening power, the most economical.

The United States Government, after elaborate tests, reports the ROYAL BAKING POWDER to be of greater leavening strength than any other. (Bulletin 13, Ag. Dep., p. 559.)

TIRED OF BEING HELD UP.

A Western Passenger Commenced to Shoot.

He Was a Good Marksman and the Robbers Left in Haste.

Greeley, Col., Aug. 17.—As the Denver and Cheyenne passenger on the Union Pacific stopped at the coal chutes at Lasalle last night, two masked men entered one of the cars, and, with loaded revolvers, ordered the passengers to hold up their hands. Hands went up in profusion and two men were about to collect toll from the astonished passengers when one of the latter opened fire from his revolver.

The two men returned the fire, but one of them getting hit, they both jumped from the train and fled.

The sheriff organized a posse and went in pursuit.

BEN PETTICOAT BRIGADE.

New York, Aug. 17.—The Women's Republican association of the United States, of which Mrs. J. Ellen Foster is president, has removed its headquarters from Washington to the Hotel Savoy, New York City.

The national republican league has requested the association to hold a mass meeting and other meetings in connection with the league convention at Buffalo, September 15 and 16.

HUGH MOSHER DEAD.

Norwalk, O., Aug. 17.—Hugh Mosher, one of the oldest and best known characters in Lorain county, has just died at his home in Brighton. He was over 80 years of age, and was known all over this part of Ohio as a drummer. He is a prominent figure in Willard's celebrated painting "Yankee Doodle," which has attained such wide attention.

DAMAGED BY FIRE.

New York, Aug. 17.—The dry goods store of Fischer Bros., No. 1550 First avenue, was damaged $13,000 by fire early this morning. The five upper floors were occupied as tenements, but all the inmates were aroused in time and got out in safety.

STRUCK THE ROCKS.

Norwalk, Conn., Aug. 17.—The steamboat Goldfisher, owned by the Myers Excursion and Navigation company, of New York, ran on the rocks near Betts island, while trying to enter the harbor last night, and cannot be floated.

THEATER BURNED.

Rome, Aug. 17.—The theater at Biella in the province of Novara, northern Italy, was burned last night. No lives were lost. The loss is about 300,000 lire, equivalent to $40,000.

PASSED FASTNET.

Fastnet, Aug. 17.—The White Star steamer Teutonic, from New York August 10 for Queenstown and Liverpool, passed Fastnet this morning.

THE DUKE AND BRIDE.

London, Aug. 17.—The Duke of Devonshire and bride will spend the honeymoon at Bolton abbey.

A PETRIFIED FOREST.

One of the Natural Curiosities of Southeastern Oregon.

Mr. Bruce says a curious thing is the ancient lava overflow which yet caps the hills in many sections, particularly in Malheur, the extreme southeastern county in Oregon. The hills themselves, under the cap, are yellow, red, chocolate, dark and other colors, making a variegated and strange picture. He found a strange feature in Malheur county.

"It was a petrified forest," said he, "in what is now a region absolutely bare of living trees. It extends for fifty miles I presume, and gives one a wierd feeling to look at. Some of the trees are four feet through, and they stand up in places, are fallen and partly fallen in others, and in nearly all instances seem suddenly to have been petrified. Even the roots and limbs are so preserved and even the product of the trees, the fruit, is also. There are acorns there perfectly preserved.

"Most of the trees are oaks and sycamores. I remember riding up to a gulch one day. A great tree lay uprooted across the chasm. It looked like an actual tree, down to the minutest part, and so it had been once, but now it was all stone."—San Francisco Examiner.

There is a dude in Germantown who is so abnormally delicate that it jars him to fall asleep.—Philadelphia Record.

Not Quite Up to Boston

"With the bare exception of Boston, St. Louis is now the greatest wool market in the United States," said Col. James Slater, a large wool buyer of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is sojourning at the Southern. "The bulk of the clip of the entire west now finds its way here for storage and sale, and if two or three railroads would be a little more liberal in the matter of freight rates I believe that Boston would soon take second place as a market. The wool season extends from the 1st of May to the 1st of July. Texas and California furnish the first clips and Montana the last. The great wool-producing states are Montana, Wyoming, Texas, California, Colorado, and Utah. If the politicians would quit tinkering with the tariff there is no limit to the development of the industry. The impetus given it by the McKinley bill is already shown in the increased clip of this year over last and the uniformly better prices that have prevailed. That we can raise every variety of wool in this country is demonstrated by the splendid grades of cashmere that come to St. Louis from Montana and the alpaca that comes from Kentucky. The season for this year is now about over but there is no telling what next year will bring forth in the wool line if the tariff is not disturbed."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Advice to Mothers of Fretful Babies.

828 Huron St., Toledo, O., July 17, '92.
Hand Medicine Co., Gentlemen:

My baby is now three months old and has had colic all her life. We gave her all kinds of remedies without any beneficial effect. I was almost discouraged in trying anything else when a friend told me of your Dr. Hand's Colic cure. I gave her 12 drops which acted like a charm. Now as soon as I discover she has wind colic I give her one or two doses which relieves her entirely. I want to advise all mothers who have fretful babies to use Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. I will hereafter always keep it in the house.

An English naval officer has noticed that barbed wire has played the part of a peace-maker in Uruguay. It has tended to suppress revolutions by making it difficult to march troops across the country where it is used for fencing.

It seems singular to have the establishment of the electric light on Mount Washington delayed by lack of power when the cheapest and freest force of nature is so plentiful there that the buildings have to be chained down. What is the matter with a wind engine?

A dozen years ago there were consumed ten bottles of hair oil where one is used now. The prevailing fashion then was to wear the hair thick and long. Dust and dirt got into the locks, and shampooing had to be resorted to frequently to keep the head clean. This made the hair dry and "porcupiny." Oil was used to smooth and gloss it.

An Italian chemist, Prof. E. Commell, has described an alloy of 400 grams of iron fillings and 200 grams of antimony that has the curious property of emitting red and white sparks when rubbed with a coarse file. He supposes that the friction ignites the antimony, the iron merely giving sufficient hardness to produce the heat.

A foreign contemporary revives a characteristic anecdote of Rossini. On the death of Meyerbeer, his nephew, Jacques Beer, composed a funeral march in his honor. In a moment of weakness he asked Rossini what he thought of it. "Not bad," replied the maestro, "but it would be better if you had died and Meyerbeer had written the march."

Mr. Albert Bierstadt, the artist, is still at work on his great picture, "The Landing of Columbus," which he intends to exhibit at the world's fair. He has been delayed in its completion by reason of the difficulty of securing from Spain costumes shown in pictures of the time of Columbus. He hopes to have the work completed in November.

The instinctive fear which cats have of dogs is illustrated very amusingly by stroking a dog and then caressing a blind and new-born kitten with the same hand that has touched the dog. At once the kitten will spit and fluff itself up in the most absurd way, distinguishing the smell of the beast which experience has for generations taught it most to dread.

The world's fair commission for Peru has asked government aid to enable it to make an exhibit of living animals of that country. It has suggested the importance of the matter to all breeders, especially of the animals peculiar to that region, such as llamas, alpacas, paco-vicunas and others, and there is no doubt that a very creditable exhibit will be sent to Chicago.

Two Swedish peasant women attracted considerable attention recently at the immigrant's bureau at Ellis Island by the aboriginal way in which they carried their babies. The little ones were tucked in a leathern bag suspended from the backs of the mothers from shoulder straps. Peasant mothers of Sweden have so much hard work to do afield that they have to take their babies with them.

A storm cloud was observed a few miles south of Lemoore, Cal., recently that acted very strangely. It was quite near the ground and seemed to be violently agitated. Suddenly the cloud seemed to burst asunder, one part going to the northwest and only forty or fifty feet from the earth. One of the sections passed over or through the tops of some poplar trees and shaved them off as if a gigantic mowing machine had passed that way.

The dean of Gloucester claims to have discovered that the remains of Osric, king of Northumbria, who was buried A. D. 729, lie beneath the shrine erected to his memory in the famous old Abbey of Gloucester. The shrine was erected in the days of Henry VIII., and was supposed to be only a memorial. If the claim is proved, it gives the Gloucester the distinction of containing the oldest known remains of the Saxon kings. Fragments of the remains of two other Saxon kings are in Winchester and Durham cathedrals.

Two men were heard talking about the peculiarity of dreams the other day. One asserted that he had gone to sleep when the clock commenced to strike a certain hour and by the time it had finished had awakened and heard the last stroke. In the meantime he had dreamed a dream that would take several minutes to relate. The other commented on the peculiarity of a dream where the dreamer takes part in a conversation and can hear the words of the man he is talking to, thus furnishing the ideas for both sides of the dialogue.

The tide of public opinion is unmistakably turning strongly in favor of keeping the world's fair open on Sunday, provided a "silent" fair be assured. The exposition authorities have never had any idea of keeping the machinery running on Sunday and everything going at full boom as on week days, and since they have so declared themselves, the demands for Sunday closing have diminished greatly in number. Not a few who had petitioned for a closed fair, have changed their minds and revoked their request and have asked that the gates be opened.

Walter Fewell, of Scranton, Pa., witnessed a novel fight the other day between a gopher snake and a kingbird. The snake was a large one and capable of swallowing his feathered opponent with ease, but the bird was too active for him and came out winner. The bird would hover over the snake but a foot or two above his head, and would strike it on the head from time to time, the snake all the while trying to seize the bird, but was unable to do so on account of its rapid movements. After some twenty minutes his snakeship gave up the fight in disgust and hurried away to avoid the thrusts of his tormentor.

THE CONFESSION.

Marguerite de Therelles lay on her death-bed. Though but fifty-six, she seemed seventy-five at least. She panted, paler than the sheets, shaken by fearful shiverings, her face convulsed, her eyes haggard, as if she had seen something awful.

Her sister, Suzanne, six years older, sobbed on her knees beside the bed. A little table drawn close to the bed of the dying woman, and covered with a cloth, bore two lighted candles. The priest was momentarily expected to give extreme unction and the last communion.

The story of the two sisters was very touching. It was quoted far and wide; it had made many weep.

Suzanne, the elder, had once been wildly in love with a young man who had also been in love with her. They were engaged and were only waiting the day fixed for the contract, when the young man, Henry de Lampierre, suddenly died.

The anguish of the young girl was dreadful, and she vowed she would never marry. She kept her word. Then her little sister, Marguerite, who was only 12 years old, threw herself into the arms of the elder and said: "Big Sister, I do not want you to be unhappy; I will never leave you, never, never! I—I, too, shall never marry.

Suzanne, touched by the devotion of the child, kissed her, but had no faith in her promise.

However, the girl kept her word. She was very pretty, but she refused many young men who seemed to be sincerely in love with her.

They lived together all their days. But Marguerite seemed always sad, oppressed, more melancholy than the elder, as though perhaps her great sacrifice had broken her spirit. She grew old more quickly, had white hair at 30, and often suffering, seemed afflicted by a secret, gnawing trouble.

Now she was the first to die.

Steps were heard on the stairs. The door opened. A choir boy appeared, followed by an old priest in a surplice. As soon as she perceived him the dying woman, with a shudder, sat up, opened her lips, stammered two or three words and began to scratch the sheet with her nails as if she wished to make a hole.

The priest bent down towards Suzanne, who was still at the bed's foot. He raised her, placed her in a chair, and taking a hand of each of the sisters in one of his, he said:

"Lord, God! Give them strength, cast thy mercy upon them."

And Marguerite began to speak.

"Pardon, pardon, Big Sister; oh, forgive! If you knew how I have feared this moment all my life—"

Suzanne stammered through her tears: "Forgive what, Little One? You have given all to me, sacrificed everything. You are an angel."

But Marguerite interrupted her. "You must hear all to understand. I was 12 years old, only 12 years old—you remember, don't you?—and I was spoiled. I did everything I liked. Listen. The first time Henry came he had patent-leather boots and his riding toggery. He got down from his horse at the front steps and begged pardon for his costume, but he came to bring some news to papa. When I saw him I was completely carried away, I found him so very beautiful.

"Then they said he was going to marry you. I cried for three nights without sleeping. I was jealous, jealous, the moment of your marriage approached. There was only two weeks more. I became crazy. I said to myself: 'He shall not marry Suzanne, no, I will not have it.' It is I whom he will marry when I am big. I shall never find any one whom I love as much.' But one night, ten days before the contract, you took a walk with him in front of the castle by moonlight, and there, under the fir, he kissed you, holding you in his arms.

"And all of a sudden I began to hate him dreadfully.

"Then do you know what I did? Listen. I had seen the gardener making little balls to kill strange dogs. He pounded up a bottle with a stone and put powdered glass in a little ball of meat.

"I took a little medicine bottle that mamma had; I broke it small with a hammer, and I hid the glass in my pocket. It was a shining powder. The next day, as soon as you had made the little cakes that Henry loved, I split them with a knife and I put in the glass. He ate three of them. I, too, ate one. I threw the others into the pond. The two swans died three days after. Do you remember? I, alas, didn't die.

"My life, all my life—what torture! I said to myself: 'I will never leave my sister. And at the hour of death I will tell her all.' And ever since, I have always thought of that moment when I should tell you all. Now it has come. It has come. It is terrible. Oh! Big Sister!

"I have always thought, morning and evening, by night and by day, 'Some time I must tell her that.' I waited. What agony! It is done. Say nothing. Now I am afraid—afraid! Oh, I am afraid. If I am going to see him again, soon, when I am dead. See him again! Think of it! The first! Before you! I shan't dare.

"I must; I am going to die. I want you to forgive me. I want it. I cannot go off to meet him without that. Oh! tell her to forgive me, Father, tell her. Oh, I implore you to do it! I cannot die without that."

She was silent and remained panting, always scratching the sheet with her withered nails.

Suzanne had hidden her face in her hands and did not move. She was thinking of him whom she might have loved so long. What a good life they should have lived together! She saw him once again in that vanished bygone time, in that old past which was put out forever.

All of a sudden the priest stood straight, and with a strong, ringing voice he cried:

"Miss Suzanne, your sister is dying!"

Then Suzanne, opening her hands, showed her face soaked with tears, and, throwing herself upon her sister, she kissed her with all her might, stammering:

"I forgive you, I forgive you, Little One."—From the French of Guy de Maupassant.

HIS VOCABULARY FAILED HIM.

He is the most profane man in one of the big insurance offices. Never mind his name: some of you know him.

When a piece of paper blows off his desk he swears in a way that must make the recording angel weep. When you hear the windows rattle with his profanity you may assume that his pen is spluttering or that his pencil has broken its point.

The other day the fellows in the office heard him say "Goodness!" They couldn't imagine anything small enough to justify so small a comment, and they all went to investigate the trouble.

They found that an immense inkstand on his desk had upset and utterly ruined his new white flannel trousers. His ordinary vocabulary had failed.—Hartford Post.

SELF-CONQUERED.

Go, if thou wilt, beloved, far from me—
What way soever pleasure beckons thee;
But make this heart thy refuge still, alway.
The key is mine—none other's. Stray or stay,
When thou art wearied in that chamber rest.
When thou art grieved, and deemest quiet best,
When thou art glad or sad. My tenderness
Shall shield thy moods of silence. None shall guess
Thy presence there. * * * Alas! what breaks my voice?
Three times I tried to say: "Bring in thy choice
Of one alone whose presence is most sweet,
And I that friend with gracious word will greet."
Forgive, love! that I faltered: "Yea," I cry,
"Bring e'en that friend thou lovest—though I die."
—Kate Vannah in Travelers Record.

BEER WITHOUT A "COLLAR."

That's What They Ordered at Coney Island, and They Got It, Too.

It was at Coney Island. The breakers played on a sunlit strand, and lent to the quiet air a low, musical cadence. In a "family resort" all was peace. The enervating atmosphere produced in the habitues a dreary listlessness.

But suddenly the soothing hiss of the breakers was broken by a rancorous clamor, and peace, and quiet had departed, says the New York World. Two, from the Bowery, entered. The rays of a midday sun filtering through the canvas awning were disturbed by a combination of tinted effects ranging through the whole chromatic scale. It produced a dashing and awe-inspiring sight, all due to the goodly habiliments of the two youths.

The fresh salt breeze, tainted by wreaths of blue smoke from black cigar stubs held at a high angle, lost its fragrance, and soon became as flat as the lees of long-drawn malt.

"See here, young fellv," quoth one to the waiter, "we wants beer, and we wants it quick, see?"

The soft-footed menial quietly glided from the room, and as quietly slid in again. In his hands he bore two high glasses of the foaming extract. But the glasses, unfortunately, were of the high-collar variety—high pillars of creamy froth, with a thin pedestal of amber liquid.

"Lookee here, sport," voiced the other in husky accents, "when we wants beer we wants der stuff. You chase der duck again and give us beer widout no fixin's. When we wants beer we wants it so bad dat it goes widout a shirt, necktie or collar, see?"

The startled waiter glanced at the likewise startled auditors; then gliding gently from the room returned with two other samples. This time the apex had been carefully scraped until there remained only a thin line of the froth.

"You're a beaute," they chorused, and then the silence was again broken by the gurgling of liquid through parched channels, even as some mountain bairn wakes to life after a summer's drought.

PURE AND WHOLESOME QUALITY
Commends to publis approval the California liquid laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs. It is pleasant to the taste and by acting gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels to cleanse the system effectually, it promotes the health and comfort of all who use it, and with millions it is the best and only remedy.

THE SUMMER SUNFLOWER.

She Sits on the Sand and Bathes in the Sun Only.

At Manhattan, where queer people as well as nice people go, there is a very Frenchy young woman who mocks old ocean every day by taking a sun bath.

This summer sunflower dresses herself in a little slip of black china silk, gaily trimmed with blue ruffles, and then tying a big flower hat on her head and winding an eider-down wrap around her shoulders, she goes down on the beach to be sunned.

Underneath the gown there is a pair of flesh-colored tights, with stockings indicated upon them by the clockings, and the slippers are outlined by heavier silk. Thus the young woman is perfectly covered, although to the eye of the chance observer she does not appear to be so.

"This suit," she said to a friend of hers, "is made, as you see, entirely for service, and there is nothing superfluous about it—nothing except my garters. They have a history connected with them which I will tell to you. I call them my Tom and Jerrys, and wherever I go they are sure to go too, just like Mary's little lamb.

"The one on my right knee is studded with jewels. It used to be a belt, and I was wearing it the night Tom Moon proposed to me. Tom put his arm around me, and it rested upon that belt.

"Of course I could not accept Tom, because he is such a wild fellow—so horsey, you know, and all that sort of thing, but I think so much of him that I am always going to wear that garter in memory of the evening when Tom touched it on my waist.

"The other garter was a present to me from Jerry Gaily. We were walking on the beach in front of the Oriental when all of a sudden I felt a vicious snap, and lo! what should come tumbling down around my ankle but my stocking-supporter.

"The next day Jerry sent me this jewelled garter. On the outside you see it reads, 'Honi soit qui mal y pense.' Underneath it says, 'Entre nous.'"—New York World.

A number of prehistoric skeletons were recently unearthed in Rome. They were of males and females and averaged seven feet in length.

S.S.S. CURES MALARIAL POISON

Nature should be assisted to throw off impurities of the blood. Nothing does it so well, so promptly, or so safely as Swift's Specific.

LIFE HAD NO CHARMS.

For three years I was troubled with malarial poison, which caused my appetite to fail, and I was greatly reduced in flesh, and life lost all its charms. I tried mercurial and potash remedies, but to no effect. I could get no relief. I then decided to try S.S.S. A few bottles of this wonderful medicine made a complete and permanent cure, and I now enjoy better health than ever.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED,
As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever see anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

THE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE.

He Has Married the Duchess of Manchester.

An Event in English Society that has Long Been the Talk of London.

London, Aug. 16.—The duke of Devonshire was married at Christ church yesterday to the dowager duchess of Manchester, with whom his name has so long been associated. The ceremony was extremely quiet and only a few intimate friends were aware that the marriage was to take place. Sir Henry Calcraft acted as best man.

The duke of Devonshire, formely Marquis of Hartington, was born on July 23, 1833, and arrived at the dukedom only a few months ago.

The dowager duchess of Manchester was the Countess Louise Frederick Auguste, daughter of the Count D'Alten, of Hanover.

The late duke of Manchester married the countess July 22, 1852 and, and they had two sons, the elder of whom is the present duke, and two daughters. The duke of Manchester died March 21, 1890. For a long time before his death the names of the Marquis of Hartington, now duke of Devonshire, and of the Duchess of Manchester had been connected in public gossip, and the marquis made only conventional concealment of his deep devotion to the duchess.

It was generally understood that if Hartington should survive the late duke of Manchester, he would marry the widow. The marquis, however, had to show some deference to the views of his father, the late duke of Devonshire, who, it is reported, did not look favorably upon his son's devotion to the duchess of Manchester.

The recent death of the duke of Devonshire removed the obstacle and left Hartington in full control of his own actions, as well as in possession of one of the most illustrious titles and splendid estates in Great Britain.

THE LEGEND OF DEVIL'S LAKE.

A Bee Wrote to "An Authority," and Here is the Story.

The tribes of Indians inhabiting the country about Devil's lake, Michigan, were chiefly Pottawatomies and Ochibewas Yet several other tribes made hunting and fishing excursions to the country for the purchase of furs and skins. Otter, beaver, mink, raccoon, deer and black bear abounded, and the furs captured were very fine in shade and texture. The principal chiefs, within my own remembrance, were Baw-bese, Me-te-ah, Maw-ou-see and Win-a-meg, all Lottowattomies. Michimaniton, in their language, stood for the "great, bad spirit." There are several legends as to the name of the lake which have one foundation—some supernatural display of vengeance by the evil spirit, and the name was given by the Indians because of it.

The one most likely to be true is this: An Indian had committed a terrible crime upon a young girl, which was most unusual among the Indians and called for the most summary punishment. The girl's brother pursued him to take his life, and the criminal fled to the lake, hoping to escape in the darkness and by swimming the waters to a thicket on the other side. Being so closely pressed by his desperate pursuer, he gave an unearthly yell and leaped from the bank into the water. In an instant a glare of red light illuminated the lake, and in its midst appeared a monster of an evil spirit and with "a great roar." It threw its fiery arms about the guilty man and in an instant all was dark and still again. The Indian was never seen again, alive or dead, and tradition has it that the evil spirit claimed his own, and forever after the lake was called the "Devil's Lake" in their language—"Mich-chim-i-che-co-pee."

The belief existed among all the tribes in the vicinity of the lake that in the center, where is very deep water, was the entrance to the "cave" or abode of the evil spirit.

HEADACHE AND DYSPEPSIA.

William E. Rockwell, No. 512 West 57th street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to bilious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, over-fatigue or cold, brings on a fit of indigestion, followed by a headache lasting two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with Brandreth's Pills. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained three pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once, and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and worn-out parts with Brandreth's Pills.

WAS A SKIN GAME.

Order of Fraternal Guardians and Co-operation.

First Report of the Financial Condition as Made by an Agent of the Court.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—To-day the final report in the settlement of the affairs of the defunct Order of Fraternal Guardians and Cooperation was filed in court by Master S. Edwin Megargee, who was appointed to audit and distribute the funds of receiver John Huggard.

In his report the master goes into an exposition of the methods of the order, which was in existence about three months, being organized under the laws of New Jersey and Pennsylvania for the ostensible purpose of discouraging intemperance and vice, and diffusing the principles of frugality, co-operation, benevolence and charity, and to raise and maintain a relief fund with which to pay its members sick and relief benefits.

Each member was to pay in $44 on the installment plan, and as soon as his last payment had been made was to receive $100 in return, the difference of $56 being the company's profits on judicious investments.

If a member failed to bring in new members he would forfeit a certain amount at the maturity of his certificate, and on the other hand if he succeeded in enlisting new members his certificate would mature earlier.

The concern really depended for its profits, if its ill-gotten gains could be called profits, on the enlistment of new members and the lapse of old ones, who, upon failing to keep their certificates paid up would forfeit what they had already paid in.

The only participant in the game who had a sure thing were the officials, who, as fast as a large number of certificates approached maturity would make new regulations postponing payment, and in the meantime appropriate liberal sums for their own use.

During the three months that the association was in existence $296,063.16 was taken in, and $192,063.16 was paid certificate holders, leaving $103,344.82.

The receiver got only $34,889.20, the balance having been spent in advertising, printing, organization expenses, commissions and donations to the officers of the supreme lodge.

This sum is further reduced by amounts deducted for attorneys' fees, receiver's compensation and amounts paid in after the concern was declared insolvent, leaving only $27,798.49 to pay the claims of 4,375 persons amounting to $128,992, of which it is about 20 per cent.

It is one of the biggest swindles ever perpetrated in this state, and since its exposure many smaller concerns of the same kind have gone under for want of patronage.

Don't become constipated. Beecham's Pills.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

President Gannon Sizes Up the Affair.

An End Will Come to the Discussion as Soon as Home Rule is Granted.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Statements likely to attract wide attention were made to-day by Hon. M. V. Gannon, of Omaha, president of the Irish National League of America.

In an interview at McCoy's hotel President Gannon, speaking of the acceptance in good faith by the American Irish of Gladstone's assurances, said:

"Our whole idea, and the limit of our idea, has been to place Ireland in the same relation to the imperial government that Illinois or Nebraska holds to the American government. We will never rest while our mothers' graves are trod by slaves. The only cause of the unrest of our people is this Irish question; and once it is settled, we will blend with the American people and be heard of as a separate nationality no more. I will be glad, for my boy's sake, when the incubus of a foreign duty has been removed. We are Americans; but we are Americans who must take thought of our kin beyond the sea. The duty lies upon us all the more emergently because England has—not content with starving our people out of their historic homes—followed them here with lies and slanders that too many people believe. We are gibbetted and pilloried as the buffoons of the earth. We can leave it to our American friends if the caricatures are just.

"The Parnellites and anti-Parnellites simply form the nucleus of the two parties that will naturally appear in the Irish parliament. The church did not display hostility to Parnell until his lieutenants betrayed him, and until after Gladstone had written his historic letter. The young manhood of Ireland resented the idea that their leader had been dictated to by a British minister, and in his own language, thrown to the wolves by those who sought his destruction in the perjured Times commission. Here you have the bases of Irish parties, of which there will be two. Free America has three, free France six, free Italy four and Germany six.

"De Maistre says that English literature for three centuries has been a continuous conspiracy against the truth. The stage Irishman is no longer recognized as the type of our race, with the whisky bottle in his pocket and his shandeen in his hat. We are on the threshold of the Irish nation; let us cross it, and Irish Americanism will be heard of no more."

Asked about the split in the ranks of the American Irish, Mr. Gannon turned rather quickly upon the inquisitor and said: "You mean the fight on Alexander Sullivan? Well, I want to tell you one thing that the papers possibly do not know. Mr. Sullivan is accused of the misappropriation of $100,000 of Irish money. In my position, it has been necessary for me to learn all the facts and I shall only say this: Written receipts have been shown to me for every penny that ever went through Alexander Sullivan's hands. My own judgment is that when Ireland gets home rule, it will be due to the fact that Alexander Sullivan had organized American public opinion, and that he, and he alone, made it a fighting force in international politics. He is, in my judgment, more than any other man the maker of the Irish nation of 1892. From the time that he, backed by the Irish opinion of this country, went first to President Arthur, we began to succeed. The fruit is now almost in our hands, but we would be ungrateful and treacherous if we did not acknowledge heartily, wholly, the services of the man who, more than any other, made this result a possibility."

A Druggist Saved the Child's Life.

"My little one was so delicate we thought she could not live," writes Mrs. J. E. Young, of La Crosse, Wis., "but our druggist recommended lactated food, and she grew strong and healthy by its use. She is now a beautiful child, the envy of many." Physicians, druggists, nurses and mothers unite in recommending lactated food, for it saves babies' lives.

OAK HARBOR.

Personal Mention of General Interest.

Oak Harbor, O., Aug. 17.—(Special.)—Mr. Louis Hilb, proprietor of the Bell clothing house, is visiting relatives in Cincinnati a few days.

Mr. Jerry Metzger is spending a few weeks in Toledo.

Miss Bertha Palmer, of Blissfield, Mich., is visiting at E. H. Myers'.

Miss Bertha Gradolph, who has been visiting in Oak Harbor some time, returned to her home in Toledo Saturday.

Miss Rozella Tought is visiting relatives in Fremont.

Ida and Chas. Kramb started for California Monday morning, where they will spend a part of the winter.

Mrs. L. Perry visited relatives in Clyde over Sunday.

The St. Louis man who tapped an electric light wire surreptitiously for his own use was set at liberty, the judge who tried him declining to pronounce the offense petit larceny, while the grand jury refused to regard it as fraud. There was no dispute as to the fact of the offense. The difficulty seems to have been the purely technical one of finding the proper legal label for it. The electric light company may be relied on to see that the law's deficiency in that respect shall be promptly made good.

City transportation seems to be reasonably profitable. According to a computation recently published in a financial journal the percentage of net dividends returned to the stockholders of street railways in the United States is three times as great as that of steam railways.

ESSAY ON MOSQUITOES.

A Victim Draws a Vivid Picture of Realities.

Mosquitoes cut no figure in winter; closed doors and windows and diet on snow flakes are not in accord with their mode of living. Their advent is to be looked upon simultaneously with hot weather, circuses and frequent rain showers, the latter leaving fragrant lakelets in our many vacant hollow lots for them to be born in and increase like "the sands in the sea."

This mosquito is of migratory habit though, for soon he is rampant through every habitation, setting every protection of screens at naught, invading every nook of dwellings much to the delight of every wide-awake citizen and the sweet babies.

One of these treasures nestled snugly in its crib, protected by a mosquito "bar," wakes with a yell that would do credit to a Comanche. The frightened family rushing to his rescue, find a lump on the little one's forehead telling the story of its dismay.

The naturalist allows 5,000 muscles to the trunk of an elephant. Maybe he did not make the acquaintance in his zoological researches this season with this pestiferous little marauder or he would have made mention and have credited him with twice that number.

The versatility of his genius is astonishing, and as a vocalist he ranks with the best never subject to sore throat. He manages to keep one wide awake during the hours of his performance which not all concert singers can do.

Hark! faint sounds of a distant serenade strike the ear, nearer they draw, a short pause, an almost imperceptible commotion near by and the vampire has taken a nip at one's cheek (the most prominent feature probably). The enemy is quickly recognized and with revengeful intent his speedy destruction is planned. Meanwhile the intruder changes his field of operation and without delay inserts his spear into your temple, piercing one to the very veins. Determined on a way of retribution, the arm is slowly rising in mid air to drop with an acumen that would suffice to fell a prize fighter; the brain whirls from the blow amidst pain and triumph; you gasp, here you are! looking for the corpse which, quite unconcerned, flapping his wings over his body which is thrice the normal size of his natural shape. He ascends toward the ceiling singing the tune "The Girl I Left Behind Me," and wisely takes a rest for the good of his digestion.

Composing yourself into, as you imagine, an impregnable position with breastwork of blanket and visor of sheet, almost smothering the breath out of one's body, when the attack through some crevice in your fortification is renewed by a fresh relay of the enemy, then patience ceases to be a Christian virtue. With swollen cheeks, bloodshot eyes and revenge in heart, the skirmish with those spry guerrillas begins. If late passengers on double deckers chose to peep into upper story windows (but they don't) they behold white spectral apparitions scaling lounges, tables and dressers after the enemy, performing dexterous acrobatic feats in hopes of avenging the bloody deeds of the tormentors and the loss of sleep.

Oh! if only one could be slain, but never one, and ignominiously defeated we try carbolic salve and all other panacea for the ravages the tantalizing enemy has made on our poor tired anatomy. He is undaunted and abroad in the land.

MRS. T. HEART.

In Paint the best is cheapest—

Strictly Pure White Lead

is best; properly applied it will not scale, chip, chalk, or rub off; it firmly adheres to the wood and forms a permanent base for repainting. Paints which peel or scale have to be removed by scraping or burning before satisfactory repainting can be done.

Be sure that you have only strictly pure White Lead. The following brands have a reputation established, they are standard, and well known.

ANCHOR (Cincinnati)
ARMSTRONG & McKELVY (Pittsburgh)
BEYMER-BAUMAN (Pittsburgh)
COLLIER (St. Louis)
CORNELL (Buffalo)
DAVIS-CHAMBERS (Pittsburgh)
ECKSTEIN (Cincinnati)
FAHNESTOCK (Pittsburgh)
MORLEY (Cleveland)
RED SEAL (St. Louis)
SHIPMAN (Chicago)
SOUTHERN (St. Louis and Chicago)

If a color other than white is wanted, tint the Lead with the National Lead Co.'s

Pure White Lead Tinting Colors

They are sold in small cans, one pound being sufficient to tint twenty-five pounds of strictly pure White Lead the desired shade.

In combination with strictly pure White Lead these colors make the best paint that it is possible to put on a building.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by grocers, labelled thus:

I. C. B. U. CONVENTION.

of the several branches of our union in that purpose so that branches composed of our Catholic women might be established wherever branches of this union existed. The brothers named as organizers of the women's branches in their cities were successful in their practical response to the appeals of our second vice president. These six branches report a membership of 409.

The union now numbers 189 societies reporting 18,174 members.

There are 15 societies which have not reported during the year.

During the year the societies of the union report having issued 14 withdrawal cards, 84 traveling cards and having admitted 23 on withdrawal cards.

From July, 1891, to January 1, 1892, the societies reporting paid for sick and death benefits $38,400, but 41 societies made no report of payments during that period.

From January to July, 1892, the societies reporting paid $56,112, but 62 societies made no report.

Thus a total payment for relief during the year aggregates $94,512.

At latest reports the assets of the society aggregated $157,084.

Of 171 societes reporting one year ago it appears by their latest reports this year that 69 have increased membership, 88 report less than a year ago while 14 report the same number of members.

Of the 97 societies in Pennsylvania a year ago, 49 report increase, 41 decreased and 7 equal membership as compared with reports of one year ago.

The largest percentage of increased membership during the year reported by the societies were:

The Father Whelan society, of Scranton Pa., reports an increase from 50 to 205, or 310 per cent.

The societies increasing 100 per cent or more were:

The Sacred Heart, of Worcester, Mass., increased from 22 to 51 or 131 per cent.

The Father Mullen society, of Philadelphia, reports from 74 to 166, or 113 per cent.

The Shamrock, of Philadelphia, reports additions from 40 to 84, or 110 per cent.

St. Cecelia society, of Toledo, reports from 125 to 250, or 100 per cent.

Affiliated.

During the year the Robert Emmet society, of Toronto, Canada, united with the No. 451 of the same city.

Disbanded.

During the year 11 societies disbanded. They were:

St. Patrick's, Harrisburg, Pa.
St. Joseph's, Brookville, Pa.
Rev. Thomas Quinn, of Philadelphia.
Knights of Erin, Steubenville, Ohio.
St. Joseph's, of Lewiston, Maine.

Organization Fund.

The executive committee after the convention of Scranton levied a voluntary tax of three cents per member, and notice was accordingly given all societies, stating the purpose of calling for such a contribution to aid in the extension of the union.

In response to that call I received $234.15, which was promptly placed in the hands of the treasurer of the union.

For all sums of money passing through my hands satisfactory vouchers will be presented your auditors.

Joint Meeting.

The joint meeting of the local branch of the Y. M. C. B. A. and the St. Cecelia society at Friendship hall last evening was so well attended that standing room was at a premium.

Just as the proceedings commenced, Delegate McChrystal and a large contingent of ladies and gentlemen from Sandusky entered the hall and were tendered a cordial reception.

President Della Mansuy, of the St. Cecelia society, called the meeting to order. After the initiation of two new members, Miss Agnes Early, one of the initiated, was introduced and gave two excellent recitations that were greeted with rounds of applause.

On the platform occupying seats beside President Mansuy were T. M. Daly, president of the I. C. B. U.; Secretary Griffin and P. H. Sugrue, president of the Y. M. C. B. A.

Mr. Daly, in a brief but happy speech, congratulated the society on its evident strength and the good work it was performing. The St. Cecelia society of Toledo was known and honored throughout the land. The union had recognized its worth when at the last annual convention at Scranton one of the St. Cecelias, Mrs. Kate Reilly, was elected third vice-president. This was an honor bestowed on a woman for the first time during the 24 years of the union's existence.

The speaker referred at considerable length to the great work of charity the Catholic church was doing, largely through the influence and medium of women throughout the world. He pointed to the homes for orphans and the aged, to the hospitals and charitable institutions that dot the land as monuments to the practical charity of the church and to the active and excellent co-operation and influence of women.

Martin I. J. Griffin, secretary of the union, followed, and took occasion to pay a tribute to the society and the Catholic women generally. He spoke of the influence of women for good in all works of charity and predicted that in the coming years women will stand side by side with men in every great and good work. The rights, so long denied her, would be granted, and she would stand the equal in all things with the sterner sex.

John J. Behan, of Kingston, spoke briefly on the good work that the society had done and was doing. The example would have great results and he would return home with good tidings, and hoped the example set by the Catholic women of Toledo would be followed in every city throughout America.

E. Gaw Flannigan, the silver-tongued orator of Philadelphia, was inclined to criticize the young men of Toledo who were not present in as large numbers as they should be. He paid a glowing tribute to the work of Catholic women and closed with an appeal to the young men to join the organization.

John J. Wall, of Philadelphia, delivered an humorous address in which he referred to the good looking young women present as incentives to delegates to remain in Toledo. If he was a little younger he would not return to Philadelphia at all.

P. H. Sugrue, of Toledo, spoke briefly on the work of the joint societies in Toledo, and said that the Y. M. C. B. A., of which he is president, was flourishing. He trusted that the delegates would bear with them to their homes kindly remembrances of Toledo.

Mrs. Kate M. Reilly was called upon, but said she was no speaker. She welcomed the visitors and thought all pledges made at Scranton, when the convention was asked to come here, would be redeemed.

J. J. Murphy and J. J. Whalen both responded in brief speeches when called upon, and on adjourning President Mansuy announced that the young women would meet at 9:30 this morning at St. Francis de Sales school room.

President Sugrue urged all the young men to be present at Friendship hall at 9:30, with a view of escorting the delegates to the church.

Trip to Perrysburg.

The complimentary excursion given the delegates on the steamer Burt yesterday afternoon to Perrysburg was highly enjoyable, and the visitors spoke in highest praise of the scenery along the Maumee.

Messrs. W. C. Coyle, J. J. Murphy and other local members accompanied the visitors, and explained to them points of interest.

Mrs. Reilly and Mrs. Walker had charge of the lady visitors, and entertained them on the boat.

The Banquet.

The following is the program for the banquet at Memorial hall to-morrow night:

Grand march, orchestra.
Toast, "The Catholic Church."

"The Afro-American Catholic," response by the eloquent colored orator, Mr. Daniel Rudd, Cincinnati, O.

The Toledo Y. M. C. B. A.

Be it known, that we, P. H. Sugrue, Jas. J. Whelan, Ed Keogh, R. G. Fitzgerald and F. M. Doner, all citizens of the state of Ohio, whose names are hereto subscribed, desiring to become a body corporate, for the purpose hereinafter stated, have this day associated ourselves together as such body corporate, and do declare as follows:

First, The name by which said corporation shall be known is "The Young Men's Catholic Benevolent association."

Second, Said corporation shall be located at the city of Toledo, in the county of Lucas, state of Ohio.

The above preamble was signed and sent to Columbus June 24, 1887, and on it was founded the present Y. M. C. B. A.

The object of the organization is thus set forth:

The objects of this association shall be to unite fraternally all acceptable Roman Catholics of every race and nationality.

To improve the condition of its members socially, morally and materially, by timely aid and judicious counsel.

It is solid and beneficial each member pays a monthly due of 35 cents and such other assessments as may at any time be levied by the association. Within 90 days after the death of a member in good standing, for whom an assessment is to be levied, each member pays into the death benefit fund of the association the sum of $1.

The following are the present officers of the branch:

Spiritual Director—Rev. Dr. Quigley.
President—P. H. Sugrue.
First Vice President—Wm. C. Coyle.
Second Vice President—Alex Muchleisen.
Corresponding and Recording Secretary—J. W. Sullivan.
Financial Secretary—J. C. Connell.
Treasurer—R. M. Conlisk.
Sergeant—Wm. Claugher.
Sentry—Wm. Fleig.
Marshal—Ed Sawkins.
Captain—Ed Ryan.
Standard Bearer—Geo. Horning.
Trustees—J. J. Whelan, J. C. Phelan, Jos. Huber.

The following are the committees in charge of the convention:

Executive committee—J. J. Murphy, J. J. Whelan, J. McGinnis, W. F. Sapp, J. B. Poulin, Mrs. Higgins, Miss Higgins, Mrs. Fey, Mrs. Walker, Miss Meany, M. P. Murphy, P. H. Sugrue, Jos. Huber, Maurice Cummings, J. W. Sullivan, John Larkins, Miss Mansuy, Mrs. R. Skehan, Miss Annie Flood, Miss Condon, Miss Della Hurst, Owen McMahon, Thos. Bell, Thos. Rooney, A. W. Sheahan.

Reception—J. J. Whelan, M. P. Murphy, J. J. Murphy, R. M. Conlisk, J. V. Sugrue, W. C. Coyle, Jas. Horan, Patrick Dolan, A. DeShetler, J. L. Acker, Jos. Hogan, Thos. Ushers at banquet—R. M. Conlisk.

Ticket takers—J. McGinnis, John Sullivan, W. C. Coyle, Patrick Galliger.

On boat—Wm. Claugher, Patrick Dolan.

Financially and numerically the branch was never in better condition. The membership is over 400 and this convention will undoubtedly give an impetus to the enrollment.

The St. Cecelia Society.

Of the Irish Catholic Benevolent union, No. 531, was organized March 9, 1878, with a charter membership of 75. This large number for various causes dwindled in a short time to 14, and for two years the "faithful few" had a hard struggle for existence. The meetings were held in Damon hall, the rent was high, and the incidental expenses many, still, the members were in earnest, and plucky, and realized that they were fighting for a noble cause. The object and aim of the society is the aiding of all members suffering from sickness or other infirmity, to create and foster a feeling of fraternty and fellowship, and to assist as far as practicable all Catholic charitable endeavors. So worthy a cause was bound to win, so thought its projectors, and they worked on in spite of innumerable discouragements.

After meeting for two years in Damon hall the society removed to the Y. M. C. B. A. rooms, in the Wade building, at the corner of Jefferson and St. Clair streets. After the burning of the Wade building the headquarters of the society were made in the Y. M. C. B. A. rooms in Friendship hall, corner Jefferson and Summit, where the meetings are now held.

The first officers of the society were:

President, Mrs. Higgins.
First vice president, Della Mansuy.
Second vice president, Anna Sullivan.
Financial secretary, Maggie Condon.
Corresponding and recording secretary, Anna Flood.
Treasurer—Kittie Conlisk.
Guard—Mame Pfefferle.

After the removal of the society to the present quarters, the membership began to increase as rapidly as it had previously diminished, and to-day there is not a woman's society in Toledo with so large a number of members, or so good a financial standing. In 1891 two delegates were sent from this society to the Scranton convention.

The present officers of the society are:

President—Della Mansuy.
First Vice President—Mrs. Geo. Fry.
Second Vice President—Della Hurst.
Financial Secretary—Nellie Moroney.
Corresponding and Recording Secretary Birdie Conlisk.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. Higgins.

The society has paid in death and sick benefits, $400. The sick benefit entitles a member to $5 per week and the death benefit to $100. The society owns property in the city and has a snug sum of money in the treasury. It now has a membership of 300, comprising the brightest and most prominent young ladies in Toledo. They are rendering valuable aid in the entertainment of the visiting delegates, and without their assistance and presence the convention would lack some of the most pleasant features.

The following young ladies will have charge of the banquet to-morrow evening: Louisa DeShetler, Anna Higgins, Rose Johnson, Hattie Robarge, Anna Barry, Edith Goulet, Mame Pfefferle, Irena Epker, Mrs. R. Skehan, Maggie Walsh, Eliza King, Mrs. J. Higgins, Mrs. E. D. Walker, Mrs. P. Brogan, Josie Meaney, Kittie Higgins, Gertie Nelsen, Mrs. Geo. Cook, Mrs. T. Tyrrell, Anna Shrink, Amelia Rudolph, Maria Mellink, Kittie Conlisk, Eva Baker, Malvina Goachey, Zellen Laloud, Lizzie Delaney, Mary Moylan, Lotta Conlisk, Della Hurst, Miss Mansuy, Mrs. G. Frey, Susie Zahnle.

Convention Notes.

Friendship hall is handsomely decorated with the national colors.

Hon. Maurice Wilhere is a national delegate of the A. O. H.

John M. Goldrick, of Chester, is the solid man with the ladies.

The moonlight ride to-night will undoubtedly be largely patronized.

Sandusky was right in line last night with a handsome bevy of young ladies.

The A. O. H. will attend the banquet to-morrow evening at Memorial hall in a body.

Friday evening the A. O. H. will give a reception at Druid hall to visiting members of the order.

President Daly is one of the leading lawyers of Philadelphia, and is an earnest and eloquent speaker.

Tom McFarland is somewhat of a wag, who manages to keep the delegation on a laugh all the time.

Mrs. Higgins is doing good service, and, together with Mrs. Kate Reilly, is entertaining the lady visitors.

James A. Fitzgerald, who is said to be the handsomest man in the convention, denies the soft impeachment.

The Philadelphia delegation will go to Put-in-Bay Friday, and returning to Toledo will leave for home Saturday evening.

Edward A. Murphy, ex-president of Pius IX. branch of Philadelphia, is one of the most earnest workers and withal the most modest of the delegates.

E. Gaw Flanigan is the silver-tongued orator of Philadelphia. He twice ran for congress in Philadelphia and the last time was defeated by only 310 votes.

ROUGH ON CARNEGIE.

Kier Hardie Proves Himself a Worthy Man.

He Sends Carnegie's Election Contribution to the Homestead Relief Committee.

London, Aug. 17.—Mr. Kier Hardie has sent as contribution to the Homestead strikers' fund the one hundred pounds given him by Mr. Carnegie for his expenses in the recent general election.

Hardie is the labor member for Westham.

He was a Scotch pitman, having worked underground from the age of 8 until he was 24 and is described as a man of strong fibre, metal as well as physical.

He is president of the Ayrshire miners' union and strongly in favor of an eight hour law.

MARKETS OF THE WORLD.

Crop Reports From the Various States.

Condition of the Grain Markets in General.

Sales and Prices of Everything That a Person Can Buy—Quotations From Across the Sea.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 142,568 bus., and at five other western points 1,179,604 bus. On the corresponding Wednesday in 1891 the receipts were 1,028,997 bus., with only 86,800 bus. of northwestern wheat. Excess to-day, over 1891, 293,175 bus.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 276,614 bus. and flour to an aggregate of 380,000 bus. Export of corn 87,126 bus.

English markets are dull and lower for wheat and steady for corn.

The St. Paul newspapers are poor authority on crop reports. One of them refers to the wheat crop in Minnesota and the two Dakotas in 1891, as 180,000,000 bus. The government estimate was 132,152,000 bus. The estimate on the crop of 1892, said to be by Pillsbury, is 110,000,000 bus. We suppose it is a reasonable estimate.

In the effort to bull corn and oats at Chicago, it is apparently overlooked that the great state of Texas has a large crop of each, and is supplying the demand in the southern states at prices way below the cost and freight from the more northern states.

A point in the deal to-day is the strikes at Buffalo, which promise to interrupt the movement of grain at that point, and enhance the freight thence. To-day it is reported that canal boats are asking 4c freight on wheat to New York, an advance of 1c to 1 1-4c.

English markets continue to decline under heavy importations. Last week the importations were 1,600,000 in excess of average requirements of foreign wheat and flour. We ask our interior dealers if the future market don't look a little ragged unless receipts of wheat decrease. Under present demand can the market stand 300,000 bushels per day in excess of the great crop year of 1891. We have no opinion to offer, but low as the price is, with declining foreign markets and present receipts the prospect is discouraging.

The wheat markets continue weak and without the influence of the usual crop scores, they follow the course of foreign markets. The factors of importance today are against the price of wheat and the only argument left to the business is the low price, and yet the price has dropped down again to-day very slowly. On the basis of September at Chicago, prices declined 1-2c to 5-8c with frequent fluctuations upward from the lowest point. Towards the close there was quite a little spurt and September at Chicago advanced 3-8c.

Corn has been weak and made quite a break, but its supporters succeeded in rallying it a little at the close and saved part of the decline.

London is reported closing unchanged. Liverpool and Paris lower.

In New York September wheat closed at 82 5-8c, unchanged. September corn at 58 7-8c, a loss of 1-8c. September oats at 28c, a gain of 1-4c.

In Chicago August wheat closed at 76 3-8c, a loss of 1-2c; September at 76 7-8c, a loss of 1-4c. August corn at 52 1-8c, a loss of 1-2c; September at 51 7-8c, a loss of 3-8c. September oats 32 7-8c, a loss of 1-4c.

In Toledo we have had a much more active market for September, October and December wheat. The sales make a respectable aggregate compared with the last week or ten days. Prices seem to have started up business. Opening prices were 1-2c lower on September and 1-4c lower on August. The market was quiet and steady until the last half hour when prices became firmer and the trading was much increased. There was a good deal of covering of short wheat. The market closed 1-4c lower for August and September, 1-8c on October and 1-4c on December. On the call December sold at 81 1-2c. After the call August sold at 78 1-2c to 78 1-4c and closed at 78 1-2c; September at 78 1-4 to 78 5-8c and closed at 78 1-2c. October at 79c to 78 3-4c and closed at 79 1-4c. December at 81 1-2c to 81 1-4c and closed at 81 1-2c bid. Cash wheat was in fair request. No. 2 soft sold at 78 1-2c to 78 1-4c and closed at 78 1-2c bid, a loss of 1-4c; No. 3 soft sold at 72 3-4c to 72 1-2c and closed at that; No. 4 soft at 67 1-2c and 68 1-2c; L. S. rejected, No. 1 at 68c to 70c; No. 2 at 63c; smutty at 66c; No. 2 white at 74 1-2c.

Corn—No. 2 at 51 1-2c; No. 3 at 50 1-2.
Oats—No. 2 for September at 32 1-2c.
Rye—No. 2 at 67c; No. 3 at 61c.

Clover seed was again in mourning. On the call October sold at $5 80 and November at $5 75. After the call October at $5 80 to $5 60 at close. November at $5 75 to $5 60 at close. After 'change the price advanced 15c. October sold, at $5 75, 200 bags.

SHE ASKED FOR NOTHING.

But the Kindly Observer Saw She Needed a Great Deal.

Occasionally, in the gamut of familiar notes which are sounded on the harp of humanity in this big city, there rings one that is new—some marked variation on an old theme. Beggars are a familiar object, and the direct appeals which are made to sympathy are such palpable attempts to play on feelings that one becomes hardened to them.

A novelty of this kind occurred the other night as a gentleman was passing through West Twenty-fourth street. The clock was striking midnight. He saw sitting on the lower steps of a brown-stone house a woman. She was dressed poorly; she was about 60 and there was the droop of weariness in her spare, bowed figure. A small paper box and a few papers were resting on the steps in front of her.

The gentleman stopped and asked: "Why don't you go home?"

"Oh, I just set down to rest myself," she replied simply.

"Have you got a bed to go to? Do you want any money?" inquired the gentleman.

"Oh, no! I don't want anything, except to rest a few minutes," she replied in the same weary tone, but with no air of courting sympathy.

A poor old woman who declined the offer of money is a rather surprising object, especially when her appearance speaks of poverty and age and weariness. But if she were independent enough to wish to avoid alms, it seems as though she had a right to her few moments' rest on the hard, hot steps. So the gentleman passed on.

But her looks, her tone, the hour of the night all worked on the man. He felt that he ought to give the woman something. He went back. She was still drooping on the steps.

"I think you had better take this," he said, putting some money in her hand.

"Why, what is this!" she exclaimed, fingering it. "A dollar! You can't afford this. I never can repay you."

But the man was on his way again. And as he passed along he thought, "I wonder if that could have been a new bluff?"

But it probably wasn't. There are no Bernhardts sitting around on door steps at midnight, and the thing was too beautifully done if it were acting to be anything short of the highest art.—New York World.

SHE DIDN'T ASK FOR MILK.

A Thirsty Young Woman's Experience With a Literal Yankee.

The other day when the thermometer stood 101 degrees a young woman got off at a village station on the New England Housatonic railroad with a two hours' wait before her for the train which would carry her to her destination. She was travel-worn and thirsty and hurriedly approached the station master.

"Where is the village?" she inquired.

"There ain't no village," said the man.

"What!" said the young woman, "do you mean to say there is no village with shops where you might get a glass of lemonade or anything cool to drink?"

"You can try that hotel over there," said the man, "but there ain't no village and for certain no shops."

Unsuccessful at the hotel, the young woman returned to the station, and dropped down wretched on the nearest bench. "Well, of all the Godforsaken hollows," she remarked to the station-master, "I never met anything like this."

"If you care to walk up the track a quarter of a mile," said the man, "you'll get a train at the junction to take you half an hour earlier to your point. I'm going to signal and I'll show you the way."

After they had walked a short distance the man jumped up a bank and entered a shed with an army of huge cans outside. In a second he was back carrying a half gallon tin of ice-cold, foaming milk. The thirsty young woman grasped it and swallowed about a quart before uttering a word.

"Well then," she said, "you're the kindest man and that's the best milk I've ever come across. Why didn't you tell me at first?"

"You asked for a village, and you asked for shops, and you asked for lemonade, said the literal Yankee, and there ain't one or t'other. If you'd asked for a drink of milk, you could have had a gallon.—New York World.

An easy way to lay in a stock of ice for summer use is practiced by a Minnesota farmer. In the winter he packs drifted snow in his ice-house, for a few nights, wetting it with well water. When frozen hard it is covered with sawdust. Last summer his stock of snow-ice lasted until late in September; it was just as good and clear as river ice; and he hadn't the trouble of hauling it.

Great preparations are being made to make the excursion given by the Clerks' Mutual Protective union the grandest moonlight ride ever leaving the Madison street wharf. There will be Toledo's great musical favorites, the Whiting Male Quartet, and other local talent will assist in making the evening an enjoyable one. Tony Leon's full orchestra will provide the music for dancing. Remember the date, Thursday, Aug. 18. Tickets, 25c; can be had at the different stores and on the dock on the night of the excursion.

BAD SKIN ERUPTION

Many Years—All Manner of Medicines and Doctors Fail—Cured in One Month By Cuticura.

In 1885 I had an eruption come out on my skin, and while at first it did not amount to much, it grew to be very aggravating and at times unbearable. The skin would get hard, inflamed, and peel off, leaving an entire new skin, acting same way for weeks at a time, always worse at nights. Have tried all manner of medicines and had doctors prescribe to no effect. I bought a box of CUTICURA REMEDIES and used CUTICURA RESOLVENT for my blood. I am fully cured, and in less than a month. It was a most aggravating skin disease, and now I am enjoying ease and comfort. I have had untold benefits. Anyone trying CUTICURA REMEDIES cannot help but derive benefit. Anyone writing me will receive an answer and my advice to give your REMEDIES a trial. A. B. PATTON,
Manager Postal Telegraph-Cable Co.,
Garden City, Kansas.

Doctor Uses Cuticura.

We have opened a drug store at this place and are having a splendid sale on CUTICURA REMEDIES, which we keep a full stock of. I would not be without your CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP for $500, just for the benefit it did my little boy. When he was six months old, his face was covered with eczema, and CUTICURA REMEDIES cured it. He is now three years old. We still use the CUTICURA SOAP, and wash him occasionally with it, to prevent his skin from getting rough. We have handled your medicines for five years, and never heard a complaint against them, but abundant praise. We sold our drug store in Kansas, and will continue in the drug business here.

KEEPING A SECRET.

This Young Woman Could Do It, and Her Skill in Not Saying Anything Simply Paralyzed a Vassar Girl.

It is wrong to declare that a woman cannot keep a secret. A woman right here in this city accomplished that feat.

Kate and Lill were roommates and classmates at Vassar college. A year ago Kate was married and came to reside in this city. The man she married is just as nice as he can be, but he is one of the most bashful men on earth. A short time ago the doctor paid a mysterious visit to this bashful man's home.

The next morning the family received a telegram stating that Lill would reach the city that forenoon and pay them a visit. Kate's husband went to the station to greet the visitor, whom he had met on the day he was married.

"Where is Kate?" asked the visitor with an injured look of disappointment on her face.

"Why, really, she was not able to come to the train," stammered the bashful man, and his face reddened clear to the roots of his hair.

"Not able? Why, she has been writing me all the time that her health was first rate. This must be something new, isn't it?"

"Er—yes, yes, yes!"

"Never had anything like it before, did she?"

"Er—no, think not."

"Why, she was one of the healthiest girls in the school. Is she very ill?"

"Er—not now. The doctor says she will get along all right."

"But what does he call the trouble?"

"Er—well, you see it's this way. Really I wonder Kate hasn't written you about it. I beg your pardon, but the doctor just calls it 'baby,' because we haven't named it yet, you know."

And a thunder-struck woman stared at a fearfully-mortified man, and all because another woman had kept a secret.

The Connecticut Bicycle club, which has become one of the institutions of Washington, has persuaded the architect of the capitol to provide a "smoke" for the model-priced stands of the members in the crypt of the capitol. Among the members of the club are Tom Johnson, of Ohio; Jerry Simpson, of Kansas; Durborow, the Illinois Adonis, and Dan Cable, from the same state, and Hoberson and Tyree, of Indiana. Nearly every day they push their wheels up the hill to the capitol and once or twice a week take long runs together through the neighboring country.

'TWAS IN THE ROSY TIME OF YEAR.

Minister—Jack, my dear little boy, I hope you try every day to overcome some fault.

Jack—No, sir; mamma said I didn't have to do any work at all during vacation.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Don't forget the moonlight excursion given by the Clerks' Mutual Protective union, Thursday evening, Aug. 18, on the steamer City of Toledo. The best orchestra and Toledo's finest musical talent (the Whiting Male Quartet) haves been secured for the occasion, and a general good time is expected.

YOU FIND SNOBS EVERYWHERE.

A lady summering in the Catskills writes: "I overheard the following dialogue in an upper hall of the hotel in which I am staying this morning:

"Chambermaid—Haven't you been here a week this morning, sir?

"Self-styled gentleman—Is it any business of yours?

"Chambermaid(quietly)—I asked so as to know about changing your bed linen, sir.

"Since hotel guests are requested to report any incivility on the par of servants, I consider it only fair to the servants, as human beings, to give an occasional glimpse of the other side. My experience convinces me that very few servants who are treated with dignified kindness give occasion for complaints of incivility either in hotel or home service."—New York Tribune.
